

WHEELER DEFENSE CHANGES TACTICS

COUNSEL PLANS NEW
ACTION TO COMBAT
SURPRISE WITNESS

Testimony of New York
Lawyer Throws Bomb Into Defense Program

Great Falls, Montana, April 21.—The defense began its fight in federal court here today to free Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana, of charges of misusing his office by receiving a fee to represent a client before the interior department.

With more than fifteen witnesses ready to testify, the plan of the defense was to consume at least two days in preparing its case.

Because of the sensational testimony of George B. Hayes, New York attorney, and surprise witness for the government, Wheeler's lawyers today abandoned plans to move immediately for an instructed verdict of acquittal.

Hayes testimony, coming as a complete surprise, admittedly fell with the force of a high explosive bomb in defense ranks and sent Wheeler's counsel into a conference that lasted until early today to map out new methods of combatting the government's evidence.

John L. Slatery, United States attorney, called Hayes to sustain his charge to the jury that Wheeler proposed an agreement to "make millions out of oil lands obtained from interior permits."

Hayes declared he met Wheeler in a New York hotel lobby on March 16, 1923, a day before Wheeler sailed for Europe. The conference was arranged by telegraph by Edwin S. Booth, former solicitor of the interior, Hayes said.

"We discussed permits of Gordon Campbell," Hayes testified.

Wheeler is accused of representing Campbell, a Montana oil operator. "Wheeler said he would split his fee with me if I would handle Campbell's troubles before the department," Hayes added. "He said he was a United States Senator and could not himself appear before the department. I think Wheeler stated the fee would run to a very considerable figure. I think he mentioned millions."

Hayes declined the offer because "he was not familiar with oil land litigation."

After this talk, Hayes said he went to Washington and saw Booth who declared, "I was very foolish because I would have very little to do; that he (Booth) would keep me advised about all of Campbell's transactions, and would help me."

"I was merely to represent Wheeler on Campbell's claims," Hayes declared.

ENGLAND AROUSED
BY ACTIVITIES OF
SOFIA COMMUNISTS

Press Claims Conspirators Are Working Against Peace
Of Britain

London, April 21.—Communist activities in Europe apparently have aroused some fears in England.

"New and desperate bolshevik offensives are in full swing in a form which varies in accordance with the conditions in each country," the Daily Telegraph said today. "There are murders and armed uprisings in Bulgaria and labor strikes in Greece and industrial quarters nearer home."

Many dangerous communists have entered England recently, the newspaper said, and secret meetings of representatives from many capitals were continuing.

"The Sofia explosion sounds very loud in our ears because the same arch conspirators are at work against the peace of this country," the newspaper continued.

The Daily Telegraph, a usually sound publication, and not given to rattling the bolshevik skeleton, said the communist aim was to capture the trade union movement in England.

TUBERCULAR CATTLE
TESTS TO INCREASE
DAIRY HERD VALUES

Will Raise Price Fifteen
Million Dr. Zimmer
Declares Now

Columbus, O., April 21.—Eradication of bovine tuberculosis in Ohio cattle, now possible under the Riggs area plan of testing approved by the last legislature, will mean an increase in valuation of state dairy herds from $15,000,000 to $40,000,000 Dr. F. A. Zimmer, director of the division of animal husbandry of the state agricultural department, declare there today.

Valuation of each of the 1500 cattle in the state will be increased from $10 to $25 after they pass the tuberculin tests, Dr. Zimmer explained. Dairy products from tested cattle will also command relatively higher prices assuring Ohio farmers increased incomes.

Upwards of 60,000 cattle in Ohio are estimated to be affected with bovine tuberculosis and must be destroyed it was said.

The appropriation of $700,000, allowed by the general assembly which is expected to be increased with some $300,000 allotted by the federal government for the work in this state will permit the destruction of some 25,000 affected cattle during the next two years, Dr. Zimmer said.

The average price paid for destroyed cattle is $37.50. The federal government allowed Ohio $210,000 for tuberculosis eradication in the 1923-4 biennium, on a state appropriation of only $300,000, but the federal appropriation is not expected to be increased beyond $300,000 for the 1925-6 biennium because congressional appropriations for this purpose were not increased.

Ohio farmers in general are showing avidity to put their herds, both cattle and hogs, under the tuberculin tests, not only because of the increase in value which is certain after cattle successfully pass the test, but also because of the higher prices for dairy products, beef and pork which they can command with tested herds, Dr. Zimmer said.

Already townships in more than 30 counties have applied to be preferred on the list for the area plan of testing, it was announced.

One delegation from Carroll County came personally to Columbus to request Dr. A. V. Truax, director of agriculture, to prefer their dairy herds on the testing list because of the premiums paid by Cleveland dairy companies for cream from tested herds.

The Riggs act which becomes law in July, will permit a majority of resident herd owners in a township, representing 75 per cent of the cattle in the area, to petition for tuberculin test. The agriculture department is then permitted to test the herds and destroy cattle found to be infected. The act also provides that when 75 per cent of the cattle in a township have been tested, the remaining cattle in the area may be quarantined to protect the tested animals. When 90 per cent of cattle in a township have been tested, the act provides that he remaining ten per cent must submit to the test.

"Making Ends Meet" Subject of Interesting Talk at Gazette-Republican Program—Crowds Greet Lecturer at Opening of School.

That women like Mrs. Brown-Lewers was fully evidenced by the fact that McKinley School Auditorium was filled to capacity with an enthusiastic and most attentive audience Tuesday afternoon at the first of the series of lectures and cookery lessons this expert is giving under the auspices of The Evening Gazette and The Morning Republican.

The members of her class listened with almost breathless interest while this very attractive and helpful lecturer showed in her talk on "Making Ends Meet" how much might be saved, not in money alone, but in happiness and in wear and tear on the spirit by the intelligent use of a carefully planned household budget. Mrs. Brown-Lewers said that making the budget was a matter for the whole family, even the children having their part in it, as a feature of their training was helping to bear their share of the family burdens, while the carrying out of the budget was a test of will power.

BUDGET TALK HELPS

Xenia housewives who are continually harassed through the failure of their well-meant efforts at making ends meet, received in Mrs. Brown-Lewers' talk on budgeting much of help and sane advice on this phase of the housewife's duty. Mrs. Brown-Lewers dealt with this subject in a comprehensive and thoroughly intelligible manner.

"Seventy-five per cent of the expenditures for living expenses in the United States are made by women," Mrs. Brown-Lewers said. "The problem, then, is for the housewife to learn some of the particular pitfalls to avoid." The reasons for the failure of the average family budget were given by Mrs. Brown-Lewers as follows: an ignorance of values in relation to prices; pampering the individual tastes as to standards of living; lack of co-operation; lack of determination to adhere to the regulations of the budget system. Charge accounts were discouraged by Mrs. Brown-Lewers.

Cleveland Warehouse Destroyed
In $400,000 Blaze—Alcohol
Spreads Flame

Cleveland, April 21.—Fanned by high winds, a spectacular fire destroyed a five story warehouse building in Oregon Avenue, northeast, today causing loss estimated at $400,000.

The fire broke out just after midnight and it was not until daylight this morning that firemen succeeded in preventing the spread of the flames from the warehouse to buildings nearby.

Alcohol stored in the warehouse, made all efforts to save the warehouse futile. Within a few minutes of the time of turning in the alarm, the building was a high blazing torch. Flames shot more than one hundred feet into the air and sparks were carried for blocks by the wind. More than a dozen families residing in the neighborhood were forced to flee from their homes, some scantily attired.

The origin of the fire was undetermined. The warehouse was owned by the Morreu Company, manufacturers of gas appliances and occupied by them jointly with the Mayburn Food Products Company.

AMERICAN BUSINESS EXTENDS AID TO EUROPE THROUGH CREDIT FLOOD

Washington, April 21.—American business has launched a tremendous campaign to put stricken Europe back on her financial feet by extending a flood of credit to foreign customers, according to information obtained today from government sources.

This great credit flood, rivaling the palmist war loan periods, has totalled hundreds of millions of dollars since the first of the year. On its ebb tide, however, there came back to the United States over $1,270,000,000 in cash payments on goods sold abroad during the first three months of 1925.

Credit terms are being liberalized to America's customers around the world. Current indebtedness to exporters of this country is estimated at more than $300,000,000 to $400,000,000 while there is a vast sum of "past due" debts, some of which have been written off as uncollectable.

Brown-Lewers in her discussion of the value of budgets.

Housewives were warned against the misuse of the left-overs, which the speaker said, constituted a decided cause of waste. "In the first place," she said, "the left-over should not exist at all. But if there are left-overs it is the part of economy to see to it that they are of the less expensive and more easily worked-over foods. And there is another too prevalent absurdity in the custom of using expensive first-service materials with left-overs and calling the result economy."

Mrs. Brown-Lewers is entirely at home on the lecture platform and speaks with a readiness which makes for the comfort of her audience. No matter how busy she is, making pies and cakes and salads and other good things for her audience to see and to sample, she always is mindful of the women who make up her large audiences, speaking slowly and clearly, so as to be heard even in the furthest seat. She realizes that women like to talk as well as to listen, and every once in a while, as she beats a cake or cuts shortening into flour for the most wonderful pastry, she declares a recess, and allows the women to exchange comments on the relative merits of the lecturer's methods and their own.

She recommends that the first thing to be done in baking a cake or in preparing any dish for the family, is to assemble on a tray all materials and utensils needed. The use of level and accurate measurements also was urged.

Again and again remarks were heard commending the lecturer's suggestions. "I'm going to try that as soon as I go home," said one woman when Mrs. Brown-Lewers recommended a piece of canvas for a pastry board.

Mrs. Brown-Lewers constantly disapproves the old adage that one cannot do two things at once. All the time while she works she talks, explaining each step in each cooking process, cheerfully answering questions of her class, thus making this a real school.

She considers it one of the most successful schools she has ever conducted, and is already looking forward to coming to Xenia next year.

Wednesday she will talk entertainingly and instructively on the subject, "Hungry all the Time," explaining in simple everyday phraseology something of food values, and how to choose and prepare food that will satisfy the different members of the family according to their different needs—the child, the office man, the outdoor worker, the business woman, and the housekeeper herself, who very unwisely sometimes forgets her own food requirements in her efforts to look after the rest of her family.

More recipes will be given out, more delicious foods prepared and more prizes given. Coming days are to be the best. Come early, bring your note-book and make this school count in your housekeeping and homemaking.

It is with pleasure that the Gazette and the Republican are now able to announce an additional attraction for the week, for A. Thurnhill and Son, furniture manufacturers and dealers, have presented a kitchen cabinet to the school that will be given to one of the women attending Friday, the last day of the school.

A musical program preceded the actual opening of the school Tuesday afternoon. Miss Helen Ford sang, accompanied on the piano by Miss Lucille Denham. Other musical numbers will feature each afternoon's program. The O. S. and S. O. Home Band under direction of Professor Seall will furnish Wednesday's musical program.

JAPANESE STEAMER
SENDS DANGER CALL
OFF ATLANTIC COAST

Vessels Rush To Aid
Frightened Crew—Radio
Tells Story

Boston, April 21.—The Japanese steamer Raifuku Maru sent out an S. O. S. call today, while about 600 miles east of New York.

Several ships reported to the shore by radio that they were rushing to the assistance of the Maru.

The dramatic story of the race against time by the rescue steamships was written through the air in radio messages.

The steamship President Adams, Homeric and Scythia all joined in the race to succor the struggling Japanese ship. Last word from the Maru was that a lifeboat had been smashed and that the wind was getting less angry.

Messages from the Maru were in the broken English of the Japanese schoolboy type made famous by Wallace Irwin.

The first "sos" said: "Ship 59 degrees low. Please quick assistance." The Maru's position was given as latitude 41:32 north longitude, 61:41 west.

Out of the air immediately came the quick response of the steamship President Adams saying:

"Heard Maru's call Coming to your assistance."

There was no answer. The Adams radioed again.

Then came another call from the Maru. It said:

"Ship meeting heavy weather and held starboard twenty eight degrees. Smashed lifeboat into boards and danger."

Five minutes later this from the Maru:

"In great danger; great danger quick hurry."

At this point the steamship Scythia rushed into the picture with a radiogram telling the Maru's radio operator to get compass bearing from Cape Race. The Scythia gave her position as 41:58 north, 65:47 west.

Next came the steamship Homeric, saying that she too was hurrying to the Maru's aid.

The last message from the Japanese said:

"No wind danger, but coming; lifeboat from sixty miles there."

The Maru carries a crew of approximately thirty officers and men. She was bound from Boston to Hamburg with a valuable cargo of grain.

The President Adams, the nearest ship to the Maru, had a dash of 163 miles, to make to reach the Maru's side.

The campaign against alleged "wide-open gambling" in Xenia pool rooms, soft drink parlors and other places continued Monday when Bert Smith and Bruce Leveck, this city, were again hauled into Probate Court on new charges.

Smith and Leveck entered appearance bonds of $500 each before Judge S. C. Wright and were released for appearance April 27 when they pleaded not guilty.

Smith, it is charged, sold a race horse pool ticket to F. E. Gary, county detective, Saturday April 18, on the race horse, "Hole Card," running in the third race at Beulah Park, Grove City, O.

Leveck is charged with committing the same offense in an affidavit naming Edward Smith receiver of the race ticket.

Bert Smith and Leveck were among the seven men served with warrants through the sheriff's office last Saturday in what is believed to be the beginning of an "anti-gambling crusade."

Attorney C. L. Darlington represents each of the accused men. Smith is also charged with selling a race ticket on the fourth race at Bowie, Md., and Leveck with keeping a room for gambling purposes and selling a race ticket to Gary. The warrants were served through the sheriff's office but authorities have not said whether further arrests will be made.

CAPTAIN YANKOFF IS SLAIN WHILE BEING CAPTURED BY POLICE

Companion of Minkoff,
Also Killed; Deny
Other Deaths

Sofia, April 21.—Captain Yankoff, second of the pair of communist leaders regarded by the government as the arch conspirators responsible for the loss of 160 lives in the Sveti Kral cathedral bombing was shot and killed by police today. His companion, Minkoff, was killed resisting arrest yesterday.

Yankoff was besieged by police in a house where he had taken shelter with other communists. When officers attempted an entrance, the radicals threw bombs at them. The police replied with a volley of revolver shots killing him.

It was generally believed today that Yankoff and Minkoff were responsible for placing the huge bomb in the belfry of the cathedral, supplemented with lesser charges of explosives in other places around the old edifices.

Sofia, April 21.—The Bulgarian government today officially denied reports of wholesale executions following the bombing of the Sveti Kral cathedral. It was stated there were no rebellious outbreaks justifying such strenuous steps.

The Sobranje, or Bulgarian parliament, reopened today and was expected to confirm the proclamation of martial law taken as a preventive measure, as well as the government's plans for keeping peace. Members of the opposition were pledged to support the government during the crisis.

Of the 500 suspects arrested, those who were found unconnected with communist activities, have been released and trials of the others will follow as soon as possible.

It seemed fairly well established that the attack on King Boris two days before the cathedral catastrophe was engineered by bandits who came from Siberia.

Berlin, April 21.—The German political police today arrested two Bulgarian students charged with complicity in the Sofia assassination. The students immediately started a hunger strike.

Berlin, April 21.—King Boris of Bulgaria was displeased at alleged harsh methods of the government taken following the Sveti Kral cathedral bombing, according to reports here today. It was said the young ruler felt that the government was over strenuous.

Officers of the Xenia Recreation Association and members of its executive board were re-elected at the annual organization meeting at City Hall Monday night.

The nominating committee, headed by S. M. McKay, recommended that all officers and directors be retained when it submitted its report to the general meeting Monday night. Association members immediately approved action of the committee.

Officers thus retained to direct the organization for the coming year are: T. H. Zell, president; John E. Daly, vice president; E. M. Woodward, secretary and E. Arbogast, treasurer. These officers serve also on the executive board along with Joseph Adams, Mrs. C. A. Kelbie, the Rev. W. H. Tiford and P. H. Flynn, honorary member, who is donor of the ten acre park site in the Dodds Addition, which the association is rapidly converting into Xenia's first park.

The executive board met after the business session of the association and approved the work on the new city park to date. The Recreation Association has rented a "donkey" engine, which, with a steel cable attached, will be used to drag dirt from the park lagoon.

The cinder path, leading to the bridge as far as Union Street, has been completed. On account of the rain, Tuesday, work of grading the tennis courts could not be carried through.

The executive board will hold regular meetings every Monday morning at 11:30.

CONDITION BAD

Athens, April 21—Miss Irma Stanfield, Athens County's Red Cross relief worker, declared that conditions in the Hocking Valley coal field have not been so bad in years. She reported that hundreds of miners are unable to buy seed for their gardens, that many families are actually starving and that no relief is in sight.

THE SECRET of more tempting foods

Tests by Domestic Science teachers over all the country have revealed in Crisco unique advantages:

In deep frying, they noticed that Crisco put a rich brown on croquette's and doughnuts.

They noticed, too, that an egg fried in Crisco looked as delicately delicious as a poached egg—the white unscorched and the edges of the yolk set like a full moon in an ivory circle.

Their Crisco cake layers came out of the pans whole, without any ragged little breaks to mar their beauty. Their cakes, too, had a wonderfully even texture, and stayed moist and fresh for days.

And pie-crusts made with Crisco were rich-brown, inviting—short and flaky.

So it is not surprising that Mrs. Mary Brown-Lewers uses Crisco exclusively in the Cooking School now being conducted by this newspaper. She will be glad to show you how you, too, can serve—with the aid of Crisco—crisp, digestible fried foods; flaky, tender pastry; delicious, full-flavored cakes.

DR. FINLEY ADDRESSES CENTRAL P. T. A. MONDAY

The clothing of the women and girls of today is not conducive to good health, was the statement of Dr. W. H. Finley, local physician, in a talk before the Central High School Parent Teacher Association, Monday afternoon.

The physician deplored the wearing of silk hose, tight fitting shoes and insufficient clothes for warmth and comfort. He told the mothers and teachers it was "up to them" to set the proper example for the school girls in the matter of dress and morals. He declared the home and the school were the places where propriety should be taught.

It is harder to rear a family today than it was twenty years ago, Dr. Finley said, because there are more things to combat that seek to tear down moral resistance. He said the general moral code has lessened, citing for example the one-piece bathing suit, which a few years ago would not have been tolerated, but is now looked upon as proper. He said the same thing as to women smoking and declared that the moral weakening was due to ignorance and public lack of interest.

Three important essentials for good health are rest, diet and proper clothing, Dr. Finley said. Every school pupil should have at least eight hours of sleep each night and should not go to bed later than 10 o'clock. Every child in school should eat a hearty breakfast to combat weakness through the day, he said.

The P. T. A.'s fight against immoral literature in the schools was the subject of an interesting talk by Mrs. I. M. W. Monroe. She spoke of the plans of the association for the city fight and urged the co-operation of the public.

The High School P. T. A. will sponsor a party at the high school, Friday evening, April 24, when a motion picture, "The Small Town Guy" will be shown, followed by a social time. The party is to be given for the pupils of the school and members of the organization.

The treasurer reported that the association has $89.71 in the bank and had spent $170.91 within the past few months to buy books for the school library. More library material will be purchased later. After the business meeting, Miss Juanita Buttz played a piano solo.

Health Hints by the Father of Physical Culture

Closely in touch with the blood vessels everywhere in the true skin are the sweat glands. Through these the surplus moisture and its dissolved impurities are filtered and absorbed by them. As they fill with this waste moisture and its dissolved contents, they empty themselves upon the outer surface of the epidermis.

Under ordinary circumstances this moisture is not visible, and is then called insensible perspiration. But when, on account of unusual muscular exertion or increase of external or internal heat, the sweat glands are very actively worked, the perspiration exudes in visible drops. In either case the perspiration is evaporated and removed by the air, and thus the depurating work that the kidneys did not do is performed by the skin. It is clear, then, why exercise and deep breathing, by hastening the flow of the blood and sending more oxygen through the body to assist in the removal of waste matter, aid in getting rid of impurities through the urine and the sweat.

As has been explained, before, a great deal of the waste matter of the body is exhaled from the lungs every time that an expiration takes place.

But what of the waste matter left after the food has been digested and what of the food swallowed but not digested? By the time that the food is out of the small intestine the nourishment has been pretty thoroughly extracted from it. From the small intestine the food residue is passed into the large intestine, or colon, often known as the lower bowel. The shape of the colon is something like that of a horseshoe, with the arch, or transverse colon, uppermost. All the way along the colon the food residue is forced or passed on, by the continued contractions of the involuntary muscles of the intestine.

The food residue, in the form of feces, passes on until, from the lower end of the descending colon, it is expelled through the rectum. As in the case of the kidneys and the skin, exercise aids in the expulsion of waste matter through the colon. Exercises that strongly affect the abdominal region build up the strength of the involuntary muscles of the colon, and thus aid in the expulsion of waste by this channel.

ALLEGED BURGLARS PLEAD GUILTY WHEN ARRAIGNED TUESDAY

Pleading guilty to a joint charge of burglary and larceny, Urschel White, 19, Forrest Sybold, 19, and Harry Franz, all of Springfield, were bound over to the May term of the grand jury, by Magistrate J. E. Jones in Justice of the Peace Court early Tuesday afternoon. The trio was remanded to the County Jail unable to give bond of $500 each.

The three men were charged with only one offense at their arraignment Monday, that of entering and robbing the Reeves and Bryant Clothing Store at Jamestown last week of between $1,000 and $1,500 in men's haberdashery.

White and Sybold were arrested after a gun battle in Gallipolis, O., Sunday and returned to Xenia for prosecution in connection with five recent mysterious burglaries and robberies in the county. The third member of the alleged gang, Franz, was placed under arrest at his Springfield residence the same day.

A complete confession by White given in the presence of Sheriff Morris Sharp, implicating Sybold and Franz, is thought by authorities to have practically cleared up the series of thefts.

A sixth member of the alleged bandit gang is said to be still at large, but efforts are being made to apprehend and prosecute the entire bandit ring in Greene County where they are said to have committed a majority of their offenses.

The charge carries a penalty of from one to fifteen years in the penitentiary.

BROWN GASOLINE TAX EFFECTIVE ON WEDNESDAY IS WORD

Columbus, O., April 21.—The Brown act, levying a two cents a gallon tax on all gasoline sold for consumption on Ohio highways became a law at 11:03 today when it was signed in the senate by Lieutenant Governor Lewis. Collection by the state begins tomorrow.

Xenia motorists had apparently resigned themselves to the two cent surcharge of gasoline imposed Sunday by refining companies for protection pending litigation on the question when the Brown gas law became effective.

Governor Donahay's warning to ten of the largest oil companies in the state to begin issuing refund coupons for the two cent tax until the matter is definitely determined did not affect local companies, which had merely raised the price on gasoline two cents, without mention of the tax.

The Brown tax bill became a law Tuesday at shortly after 11 o'clock following a ruling by the state attorney general that the tax would become effective as soon as it was signed by Lieutenant Governor Lewis. The bill is not subject to referendum, according to the ruling. It is generally believed that the attorney general in deciding the bill was not subject to a referendum vote of the people believed it to be a direct tax measure with a subsequent direct tax levy.

The price of gasoline at the local fuel stations remained fixed at 22½ cents Tuesday.

Columbus, O., April 21.—The state of Ohio lost approximately $100,000 in gasoline tax receipts by delay until today in signing of the Brown act by Lieutenant Governor Lewis. It was reported at the state house.

Had the act been signed Saturday immediately after it was signed by Speaker Harry D. Silver in the house, the act would have become law that day and the collection of the tax would have been started Sunday. The average daily collection of tax are expected to average $35,000 and the three days loss of receipts represents a loss to the state of slightly more than $100,000 it was said.

Senate officials explained the act was not delivered to them from the house clerks office until just before it was signed today.

Their homes were quarantined but since the patients recovered in a few day's time, the quarantine was lifted.

Modish Mitzi—Aunt Sophia Meets Any Occasion—Fashionably By JAY V. JAY

Dad hasn't been so popular in 20 years. In fact, he can't remember the time when three charming young women met him at the train all at once. But Mitzi Polly and Adelaide can't wait any longer for information leading to the capture of Dad's friend who's coming from England.

He's a Celebrity—but what kind? Dad refuses to answer in spite of the fact that Mitzi is looking particularly smart in her new hat of milan straw trimmed with taffeta in regimental stripes—choose your own regiment. Mitzi's is a mixture of Scottish order and Gordon Highlander.

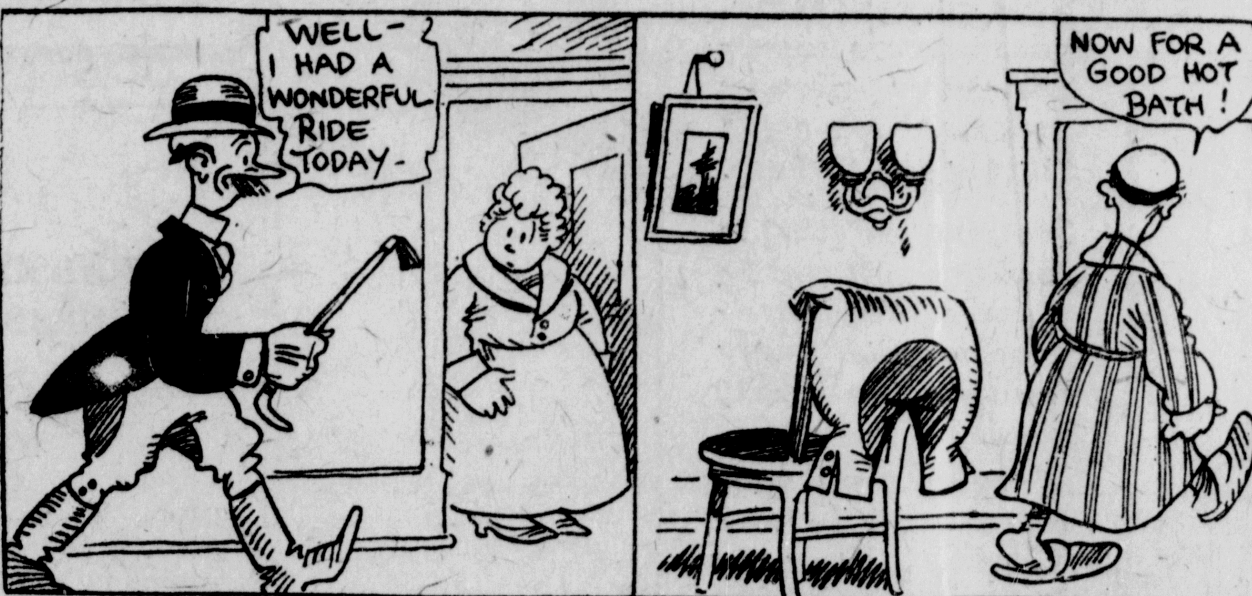

Neither does Adelaide obtain satisfaction or information. Dad seems highly amused by the excitement, but he does have time to notice that Adelaide's hat becomes her. It is a black felt with a Parisian cut to its crown and is trimmed with a band of white felt and nothing more.

Even Polly discovers nothing. All she gets is a curtain lecture from Dad about the dangers run by pretty young women who vamp elderly men. Or perhaps he is saying how becoming her hat is. He doesn't know, but it is one of the smart new bangkoks in Alcazar red, shaped like a sun helmet.

AMERICAN WORKER NOT RED

THERE are many reasons "Why the American Worker Is Not Red," declares Secretary of Labor James J. Davis in a most enlightening article in the current issue of the National Republican. The doctrines of red radicalism or communism have never found lodgement in the minds of the American worker because of the fact that he always has before him the opportunity to remove himself by his industry, ingenuity and thrift from the ranks of the workers to a higher plane in the economic life of the country, Mr. Davis declares.

The American worker, he continues, is the best paid worker in the world. He enjoys the best working conditions and the highest standards of living of the workers of any nation. He is unwilling to risk the loss of these opportunities and advantages either for himself or his children by fostering any scheme of government that would overthrow the system under which these conditions have been won and he is not ignorant of the effect which communism would have upon these things. A prominent economist recently pointed out that the number of stockholders in our industries have increased from 4,400,000 in 1900 to 14,400,000 today indicating the shifting of ownership from the wealthy to the middle and wage-earning classes of our people. The reports of railroad stock ownership likewise illustrates the tendency towards a greater participation by our wage earners in stock ownership. The New York Central recently announced that in three weeks 41,370 of their employees had subscribed for stock, the company offering 35,000 shares of stock for which there was a subscription demand by the employees for 96,000 shares, one out of every four being a subscriber.

The success of the customer ownership plan among our public utilities is another evidence of the tendency of the American worker to become a capitalist. Three telephone companies recently offered a preferred stock issue and 118,799 of their subscribers took 733,676 shares. Among these there were 2,627 accountants, 527 barbers, 10,744 clerks, 21,626 housewives, 24,317 laborers, 1,043 members of the building trades, 4,101 stenographers, 468 tailors, 498 domestics and 398 newspaper men. Another index is the fact that the bulk of savings bank depositors are wage earners and workers receiving small salaries. In 1912 there were 12,584,000 savings bank depositors with deposits of $9,400,000,000 while in 1924 the deposits were $20,874,000,000 with 38,868,000 depositors. That is, the number of depositors in savings banks exceeded one third of the population of the United States.

These evidences that the American worker generally is accumulating capital in all directions should make it clear why the fanatic preachings of false economic and political doctrines which would abolish capital have no appeal to him.

ready illustration. Normally, this county produces about two-third of the cotton crop of the world, and of our production we export commonly from 55 to 60 per cent. Our market is absolutely free to the buyers of the world. They may come here for our raw cotton, take it home, turn it into fabrics, and if they are clever enough, which they often are, sell it back to us. Not only do they have this privilege, but to an impressive extent they have availed of it. We import nearly half as many yards of cotton cloth annually as we export."

Moreover, as the President points out, our imports, especially of fine goods, have been increasing rapidly during the past few years. Those who believe that the present tariff law is stifling world trade would do well to go into our stores, great and small, and take an inventory of the multitude of foreign products on sale there.

THE STIR OF SPRING

In the mystery of all birth is found the beauty of all life.

To me the stir of spring, just before it bursts forth from the ground and opens its eyes in buds and blossoms, is the miracle of all miracles.

I would feel the loss of an entire year in which I did not walk in the midst of the movements of spring.

And when I speak of spring I mean the northern spring with its wonder of contrasts and its opening smiles after the long days of winter.

I arise early these days so that I may not miss a single note or song from my recently returned friends who have wintered in the south. I see them from my window that overhangs the woods and watch them as they drink from the spring just below. Soon little Jenny Wren will be here, and then there will be a riot of happy songs as the new nest is made in the tiny house that hangs from the gum tree over the waterfall.

I now see the pink of the peach blossom poking its life into the sunlight and in a day or so it will glow in its bridal gown beside the white of the cherry.

I have been walking in the woods and meeting my old flower friends of just a year ago who have been away for so long. I have lifted sticks and removed pieces of board or a stone here and there that they might better spread their shoots and blossom soon.

Where do all these colorings come from anyway? Yellow, blue, violet, red, white, pink, orange. All in their exquisite gowns as they march in perfect order to fulfill their mission in the carnival of beauty wrapped in the springtime.

There is such a pungent flavor to spring, too; Everything fresh and new and promising.

No one should be unhappy during the springtime. It should be the time of the year when the heart lets the sunshine in.

GOVERNMENT WILL SURVEY EARTHQUAKES IN HOPES OF FORECASTING SUCH UPHEAVALS

Washington, April 21.—The government is setting out to make an extensive and scientific study of earthquakes, with a view to ultimately predicting these vast upheavals of nature in advance—just as thunderstorms, storms and high winds are now predicted with remarkable accuracy.

Announcement was made today that the survey will be undertaken by the United States coast and geodetic survey. It will take months, but the scientists who have it in charge are confident that ultimately they will be able to give advance notice of the probable time and place of future tremors, and the results will more than justify the time and expense involved.

No section of the United States is immune from destructive upheavals although there are well recognized "earthquake" zones, William Bowie, a survey scientist, said today.

Earth tremors of varying intensity are recorded almost daily on seismographs along the Pacific coast, the Atlantic seaboard and the state's bordering on the Mississippi river. More than three hundred earthquakes occur every day in some part of the world.

"Earthquakes can be predicted as to time and place, but the strength of the tremor is uncertain, the element of time is uncertain and the area large," Bowie told the International News Service. "We may say with certainty for instance, that there will be an earthquake on the Pacific coast within the next week. But with our present limited knowledge of the changes in the earth's crust and underlying disturbances we cannot predict its intensity."

"Within the next century a heavy destructive earthquake is likely to occur along the Atlantic Coast. The east cannot sit back and consider itself more secure from quakes than the far west."

It is reasonably certain that we

CHILD BITTEN BY COLLIE PLAYMATE

Folger Hunt, three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hunt, who live on the Wilmington-Xenia Pike five miles from Wilmington, was badly bitten by a collie dog which had been his playmate from infancy, Saturday. The boy and dog had been romping in the yard, when the dog suddenly whirled and fastened its teeth in the child's right upper arm. It is said the child approached the dog while it was eating.

Mr. Hunt immediately shot the dog and decapitated it, sending the head to the Clinton County Health Department, which forwarded it to the State Department of Health, at Columbus, for examination for rabies.

LUMBERTON

The parents and patrons of the Lumberton community gathered at the school house at noon with well filled baskets and surprised the teacher, Miss Myrtle Ennis and her scholars, after a beautiful dinner was served they spent the afternoon in playing base ball.

Mr. and Mrs. Montie Cramer of Dayton spent the week end with Mrs. and Mrs. Arthur Oglesbee and family. Mr. Edward Soddors and sons Harold and William of Springfield spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Truman Hiatt and family.

Mr. A. J. Michener spent the week end in Dayton with his children Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tubbey, Miss Ednah Michener and Mr. Wilford Michener. Miss Lena Lewis spent the week end in Columbus with Mr. and Mrs. Rex Hanberry and daughter.

Mrs. Grant Conklin is improving nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hunt and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. George Hunt and family of near Bloomington.

Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson has returned to her home after having spent the last six weeks at the home of her son Russell and family.

Mrs. Sabina Oglesbee and Mrs. Harry Lighthise are on the sick list. Mr. and Mrs. Dick Jessup of Dayton spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. James Jessup.

Several from this place attended the Baccalaureate exercises at Mt. Pleasant Sunday night.

THE WORST IS YET TO COME

shall have a heavy earthquake during the coming century in the Mississippi valley. In 1811 a destructive tremor occurred in the vicinity of New Madrid, Mo.

"Rain fundamentally is responsible for the earthquake, the scientist explained. The horsepower generated by the million miles of rain that have fallen since the earth was new, has made and remade mountains, formed continents, transformed the seas to plateaus and wrought other geological changes beyond man's comprehension."

"Rain wearing away the soil and moving great masses of sediment to the margins of oceans, causes great changes in elevation of the earth's surface."

"Earthquakes and volcanoes are merely incidents in the general process of geological evolution. We have earthquakes as the sediment depresses the crust, as the crust below swells up to form mountains, as the crust is buoyed up under the areas undergoing rapid wearing away, and as the crust cools and sinks under worn down mountain areas."

YOUTH WHO KILLED GRANDMOTHER NOT MOVED BY SENTENCE

Pottsville, Pa., April 21.—William Cavalier, 15 year old slayer of his aged grandmother, will hear Judge R. H. Koch sentence him to the electric chair next Monday.

But the youngest murderer ever to be convicted in the first degree in Pennsylvania, is un-moved by this nearness to death. In the detention home of the county Jail here, William is too occupied in playing, reading and bead work to think of his fate. He chats about his handicraft, the summer, baseball and detective stories.

"Say, what makes the beads stay in that way?" he asked as the woman teaching him the craft, deftly twisted a pattern to completion. It wasn't a stupid question; it was the inquisitiveness of a boy learning a new craft.

He took it in his hands—hands larger than many men—and studied it.

"Yes I guess I'll get the juice," he answered unconcernedly when reminded he had been refused a new trial, and the supreme penalty would be demanded for his crime.

Quickly he went back to asking questions about the bead work.

Once he stopped to give an explanation of the murder, in answer to an inquiry.

"I was sitting on the porch that day," he began. "I had the rifle across my lap. I wasn't doing anything, just thinking. Then I felt queer—that way I often felt before. I saw red and I—well, after that I don't know what happened."

Why Knox Sparkling Gelatine Is Used at the Cooking School

THE foods used in the demonstration lessons by Mrs. Mary Brown-Lewers at the Home Economics Cooking School, now being conducted by the Xenia Gazette and Republican at the McKinley Auditorium, have been selected after years of tests for purity, surety, and economy.

Knox Sparkling Gelatine, which is the purest form of unflavored and unsweetened gelatine, saves its cost many times over in making fruits, vegetables, and meat go much further. One package of Knox Gelatine will serve six people at four different meals with a different dessert or salad, while a package of ready flavored gelatine serves but one meal.

Knox Sparkling Gelatine is especially selected for desserts, salads, meat loaves, and many other delicacies— to say nothing of its great health value

KNOX SPARKLING GELATINE

A half-teaspoon of Knox Gelatine, dissolved and added to a glass of milk will increase the nourishment obtainable from the milk by about 23 per cent.

Go to the Food Show and see the delicious dishes made with Knox Sparkling Gelatine.

AMERICAN WORKER NOT RED

THERE are many reasons "Why the American Worker Is Not Red," declares Secretary of Labor James J. Davis in a most enlightening article in the current issue of the National Republican. The doctrines of red radicalism or communism have never found lodgement in the minds of the American worker because of the fact that he always has before him the opportunity to remove himself by his industry, ingenuity and thrift from the ranks of the workers to a higher plane in the economic life of the country, Mr. Davis declares.

The American worker, he continues, is the best paid worker in the world. He enjoys the best working conditions and the highest standards of living of the workers of any nation. He is unwilling to risk the loss of these opportunities and advantages either for himself or his children by fostering any scheme of government that would overthrow the system under which these conditions have been won and he is not ignorant of the effect which communism would have upon these things. A prominent economist recently pointed out that the number of stockholders in our industries have increased from 4,400,000 in 1900 to 14,400,000 today indicating the shifting of ownership from the wealthy to the middle and wage-earning classes of our people. The reports of railroad stock ownership likewise illustrates the tendency towards a greater participation by our wage earners in stock ownership. The New York Central recently announced that in three weeks 41,370 of their employees had subscribed for stock, the company offering 35,000 shares of stock for which there was a subscription demand by the employees for 96,000 shares, one out of every four being a subscriber.

The success of the customer ownership plan among our public utilities is another evidence of the tendency of the American worker to become a capitalist. Three telephone companies recently offered a preferred stock issue and 118,799 of their subscribers took 733,676 shares. Among these there were 2,627 accountants, 527 barbers, 10,744 clerks, 21,626 housewives, 24,317 laborers, 1,043 members of the building trades, 4,101 stenographers, 468 tailors, 498 domestics and 398 newspaper men. Another index is the fact that the bulk of savings bank depositors are wage earners and workers receiving small salaries. In 1912 there were 12,584,000 savings bank depositors with deposits of $9,400,000,000 while in 1924 the deposits were $20,874,000,000 with 38,868,000 depositors. That is, the number of depositors in savings banks exceeded one third of the population of the United States.

These evidences that the American worker generally is accumulating capital in all directions should make it clear why the fanatic preachings of false economic and political doctrines which would abolish capital have no appeal to him.

ready illustration. Normally, this country produces about two-third of the cotton crop of the world, and of our production we export commonly from 55 to 60 per cent. Our market is absolutely free to the buyers of the world. They may come here for our raw cotton, take it home, turn it into fabrics, and if they are clever enough, which they often are, sell it back to us. Not only do they have this privilege, but to an impressive extent they have availed of it. We import nearly half as many yards of cotton cloth annually as we export.

Moreover, as the President points out, our imports, especially of fine goods, have been increasing rapidly during the past few years. Those who believe that the present tariff law is stifling world trade would do well to go into our stores, great and small, and take an inventory of the multitude of foreign products on sale there.

HOW MANY HURT?

"Suppose," said I, "you chanced to see a small boy tumble from a tree. How would you tell that tale to me?"

"Why dad," said he, "I'd simply say I saw a boy get hurt today. And two men carried him away."

"How many injured would there be?" I asked. "Just one, of course," said he.

"The boy who tumbled from the tree?"

"No, no," I answered him, "that fall which hurt the lad, brought pain to all. Who knew and loved that youngster small."

"His mother wept, his father sighed, His brothers and his sisters cried, And all his friends were hurt inside."

"Remember this your whole life through— Whatever hurts may come to you Must hurt us all who love you, too."

"You cannot live your life alone, We suffer with your slightest groan, And make your pain or grief our own."

"If you should do one shameful thing You could not bear alone the sting, We'd spend our years in suffering, How many hurt, we cannot state."

There never falls a blow of fate But countless people feel its weight."

M. M.: "Could I dye my heavy, white wool sweater a dark blue successfully at home? I should want it to dry without stretching."

Answer: If you wish to experiment, knit a small sample of white wool, buy a wool-dye of the desired color and shade, and see what you can do with the sample before going ahead on the sweater. I am afraid you will not have much success. Wool garments often shrink when being dyed. It is also hard to dry a sweater without stretching it. Perhaps your best course would be to let a professional cleansing establishment do the work for you.

THE STIR OF SPRING

In the mystery of all birth is found the beauty of all life.

To me the stir of spring, just before it bursts forth from the ground and opens its eyes in buds and blooms, is the miracle of all miracles.

I would feel the loss of an entire year in which I did not walk in the midst of the movements of spring.

And when I speak of spring I mean the northern spring with its wonder of contrasts and its opening smiles after the long days of winter.

I arise early these days so that I may not miss a single note or song from my recently returned friends who have wintered in the south. I see them from my window that overhangs the woods and watch them as they drink from the spring just below. Soon little Jenny Wren will be here, and then there will be a riot of happy songs as the new nest is made in the tiny house that hangs from the gum tree over the waterfall.

I now see the pink of the peach blossom poking its life into the sunlight and in a day or so it will glow in its bridal gown beside the white of the cherry.

I have been walking in the woods and meeting my old flower friends of just a year ago who have been away for so long. I have lifted sticks and removed pieces of board or a stone here and there that they might better spread their shoots and blossom soon.

Where do all these colorings come from anyway? Yellow, blue, violet, red, white, pink, orange. All in their exquisite gowns as they march in perfect order to fulfill their mission in the carnival of beauty wrapped in the springtime.

There is such a pungent flavor to spring, too. Everything fresh and new and promising.

No one should be unhappy during the springtime. It should be the time of the year when the heart lets the sunshine in.

GOVERNMENT WILL SURVEY EARTHQUAKES IN HOPES OF FORECASTING SUCH UPHEAVALS

Washington, April 21.—The government is setting out to make an extensive and scientific study of earthquakes, with a view to ultimately predicting these vast upheavals of nature in advance—just as thunderstorms, storms and high winds are now predicted with remarkable accuracy.

Announcement was made today that the survey will be undertaken by the United States coast and geodetic survey. It will take months, but the scientists who have it in charge are confident that ultimately they will be able to give advance notice of the probable time and place of future tremors, and the results will more than justify the time and expense involved.

No section of the United States is immune from destructive upheavals although there are well recognized "earthquake" zones, William Bowie, a survey scientist, said today.

Earth tremors of varying intensity are recorded almost daily on seismographs along the Pacific coast, the Atlantic seaboard and the state's bordering on the Mississippi river. More than three hundred earthquakes occur every day in some part of the world.

"Earthquakes can be predicted as to time and place, but the strength of the tremor is uncertain, the element of time is uncertain and the area large," Bowie told the International News Service. "We may say with certainty for instance, that there will be an earthquake on the Pacific coast within the next week. But with our present limited knowledge of the changes in the earth's crust and underlying disturbances we cannot predict its intensity."

"Within the next century a heavy destructive earthquake is likely to occur along the Atlantic Coast. The east cannot sit back and consider itself more secure from quakes than the far west."

It is reasonably certain that we shall have a heavy earthquake during the coming century in the Mississippi valley. In 1811 a destructive tremor occurred in the vicinity of New Madrid, Mo.

"Rain fundamentally is responsible for the earthquake, the scientist explained. The horsepower generated by the million miles of rain that have fallen since the earth was new, has made and remade mountains, formed continents, transformed the seas to plateaus and wrought other geological changes beyond man's comprehension. "Rain wearing away the soil and moving great masses of sediment to the margins of oceans, causes great changes in elevation of the earth's surface."

"Earthquakes and volcanoes are merely incidents in the general process of geological evolution. We have earthquakes as the sediment depresses the crust, as the crust below swells up to form mountains, as the crust is buoyed up under the areas undergoing rapid wearing away, and as the crust cools and sinks under worn down mountain areas."

YOUTH WHO KILLED GRANDMOTHER NOT MOVED BY SENTENCE

Pottsville, Pa., April 21.—William Cavalier, 15 year old slayer of his aged grandmother, will hear Judge R. H. Koch sentence him to the electric chair next Monday.

But the youngest murderer ever to be convicted in the first degree in Pennsylvania, is un-moved by this nearness to death.

In the detention home of the county jail here, William is too occupied in playing, reading and bead work to think of his fate. He has characters about his handiwork, the summer, baseball and detective stories. "Say, what makes the beads stay in that way?" he asked as the woman teaching him the craft, deftly twisted a pattern to completion.

It wasn't a stupid question; it was the inquisitiveness of a boy learning a new craft.

He took it in his hands—hands larger than many men—and studied it. "Yes I guess I'll get the juice," he answered unconcernedly when reminded he had been refused a new trial, and the supreme penalty would be demanded for his crime.

Quickly he went back to asking questions about the bead work. Once he stopped to give an explanation of the murder, in answer to an inquiry.

"I was sitting on the porch that day," he began. "I had the rifle across my lap. I wasn't doing anything, just thinking. Then I felt queer—that way I often felt before. I saw red and I—well, after that I don't know what happened."

Why Knox Sparkling Gelatine Is Used at the Cooking School

THE foods used in the demonstration lessons by Mrs. Mary Brown-Lewers at the Home Economics Cooking School, now being conducted by the Xenia Gazette and Republican at the McKinley Auditorium, have been selected after years of tests for purity, surety, and economy.

Knox Sparkling Gelatine, which is the purest form of unflavored and unsweetened gelatine, saves its cost many times over in making fruits, vegetables, and meat go much further. One package of Knox Gelatine will serve six people at four different meals with a different dessert or salad, while a package of ready flavored gelatine serves but one meal.

Knox Sparkling Gelatine is especially selected for desserts, salads, meat loaves, and many other delicacies—to say nothing of its great health value.

KNOX SPARKLING GELATINE

A half-teaspoon of Knox Gelatine, dissolved and added to a glass of milk will increase the nourishment obtainable from the milk by about 23 per cent.

Plain Sparkling Gelatine for general use.

Go to the Food Show and see the delicious dishes made with Knox Sparkling Gelatine.

COMPANY L. TO DRILL WITHOUT PAY DUE TO COOLIDGE ECONOMY

Despite President Coolidge's action in vetoing the appropriation bill for national guard units, members of Company L, 147th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, will continue to drill on regular nights for the next three months without pay, it was decided at a meeting held at the Armory, East Main Street, Monday night.

Owing to the fact that the president has ordered the number of drills each year to be changed from sixty to forty-eight, members of Company L do not draw pay for further drills until after July 1.

"The president, in releasing the deficiency item for payment of armory drills, has insisted on a substantial saving of the fund which will limit the number of drills to be held in the fiscal year ending June 30, to forty-eight in number," declared Frank D. Henderson, adjutant general in a letter to Captain Leroy V. John, of Company L. The local company as well as other companies has completed its required number of drills with no remuneration for further drills in sight until July 1.

Because of the president's action, companies will not be paid for regular drills until July 1, the fiscal year ending June 30, but in deciding not to discontinue drill, Company L is following the action of other companies throughout the state and nation, it is said.

This action was taken that enthusiasm in drills will not abate, and in order to keep the morale and efficiency of members at its highest pitch. More than half of the members of the company attended the Monday night meeting.

Members also formed a branch club composed of regular enlisted men, with eighteen charter members. A name for the club will be selected at a meeting to be held at the armory next Monday night. Officers may not become members of the organization.

The club was formed to co-operate on an extensive scale with the management of Company L, make suggestions to officers and aid drill work in every possible way. All social functions will be placed in charge of members of the new club, it was announced.

The health commissioner refuses to close the school because that would scatter all the children. They probably would mingle just as much out of school as in school, and under worse conditions. Moreover, in school the health commissioner or health nurse can examine them daily, locate beginning cases of scarlet fever and isolate them before they have done any harm. And experience has shown that closing schools does not stop the spread of scarlet fever, while keeping school in session and under supervision is effective.

What about fumigation? Have you ever read of savage races who make smoke and fire to drive away evil spirits which have caused some of the tribe to sicken and die? That is the foundation of fumigation; it is a useless relic of the practices of bygone days. Fumigation is useless for two reasons. First, as it is carried out it will not kill the germs of disease. Second, the germs are not there to kill. The germs of scarlet fever and diphtheria are parasites, living in the human body. They cannot live outside the body for any length of time. A child who develops scarlet fever has contracted the disease from another person who is carrying the germs. That person may have a very mild attack which passes unnoticed. Desks, books, walls and other such objects cannot support the germs which are coughed or sneezed on them for more than a few hours.

The germs are found in the discharges of the nose, mouth and ear. Articles freshly contaminated with these discharges should be purified by boiling, washing, fresh air and sunshine.

Failure to report a mild case, neglect to call a doctor, refusal to obey quarantine regulations, and carelessness in following the doctor's orders in regard to isolation of the patient, occasionally a doctor fails to report a case because he says it is "Rose Rash" or "Scarlatina," which is abject nonsense.

If you wish to know how to prevent scarlet fever or what to do when you have a case, write to the Ohio Department of Health for its two pamphlets on this subject, the first on scarlet fever alone, and the second on the regulations in this state for the control of all communicable diseases.—From Ohio Health News.

SECRETS of the SARGASSO

Scientific Argosy Seeks Unexplored Fastnesses of "Sea of Missing Ships" to Plumb Mysteries of Weed-Girt Tropic Waters

IT is very hot. The sea rolls sluggishly under a misty sky with a sun in it like a rotten orange. The surface of the water is patched and granulated in every direction with a mat of pallid green and yellow. There is no sound but the occasional wash of a wave beneath the weed and the hoarse creaking of thousands of sea birds hovering and wheeling above.

In all the lonely circle of the horizon the Sargasso Sea stretches without sign of human life, unless it be the solitary hulk of a derelict, sunk to the water-line, which wallows almost invisible in its trappings of kelp and strange, snake-like marine plants, dotted with resting gulls.

But far to the north a faint smudge of smoke appears against the sky, mounting and growing darker. Two masts and funnel of a steamer come into view beneath it, and in an hour's time the ship is well above the horizon, ploughing her way stubbornly through the floating fields of vegetation.

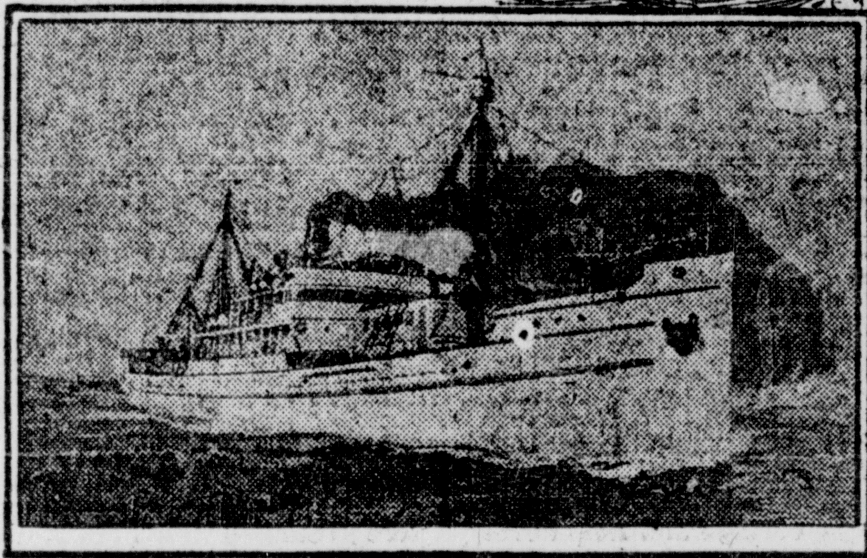

Clouds of chattering birds fly about her, raising their voices in angry vociferation at this invasion of their aged domain. A mattress of weed trails thickly from her advancing stem, like an inconspicuous green moustache, and in the open water of her wake the sharp fins of sharks are sliding along, silent as pursuing wolves.

A Strange Craft

An unusual craft this, which has poked her blunt nose into this untraveled wilderness of the sea. Suspended over her fore-foot is a small platform, swung outboard from the cut-water, from which a man with a long-handled ladle is dipping and scooping beneath the surface. Right, left, right, left, he probes the still-untroubled waters as they advance. The spoils he deposits in tin pails ranged about his feet.

Lining the rail above him is a group of fourteen people who peer eagerly at the warm mistiness of the sea, talking in excited whispers. Except for them the ship seemed deserted, a small freighter preternaturally clean, with the name "Arcturus" gleaming in gold letters upon her bows.

But she is not an ordinary cargo-cadger. Most of the upper cabins are filled with scientific apparatus—microscopes, test tubes, charts, chemicals in bottles, books of reference, cases full of hand flashlights for night field work, all the impedimenta of a learned establishment. On deck are nets, reels of cable and wire rope, great steel seines and many small boats.

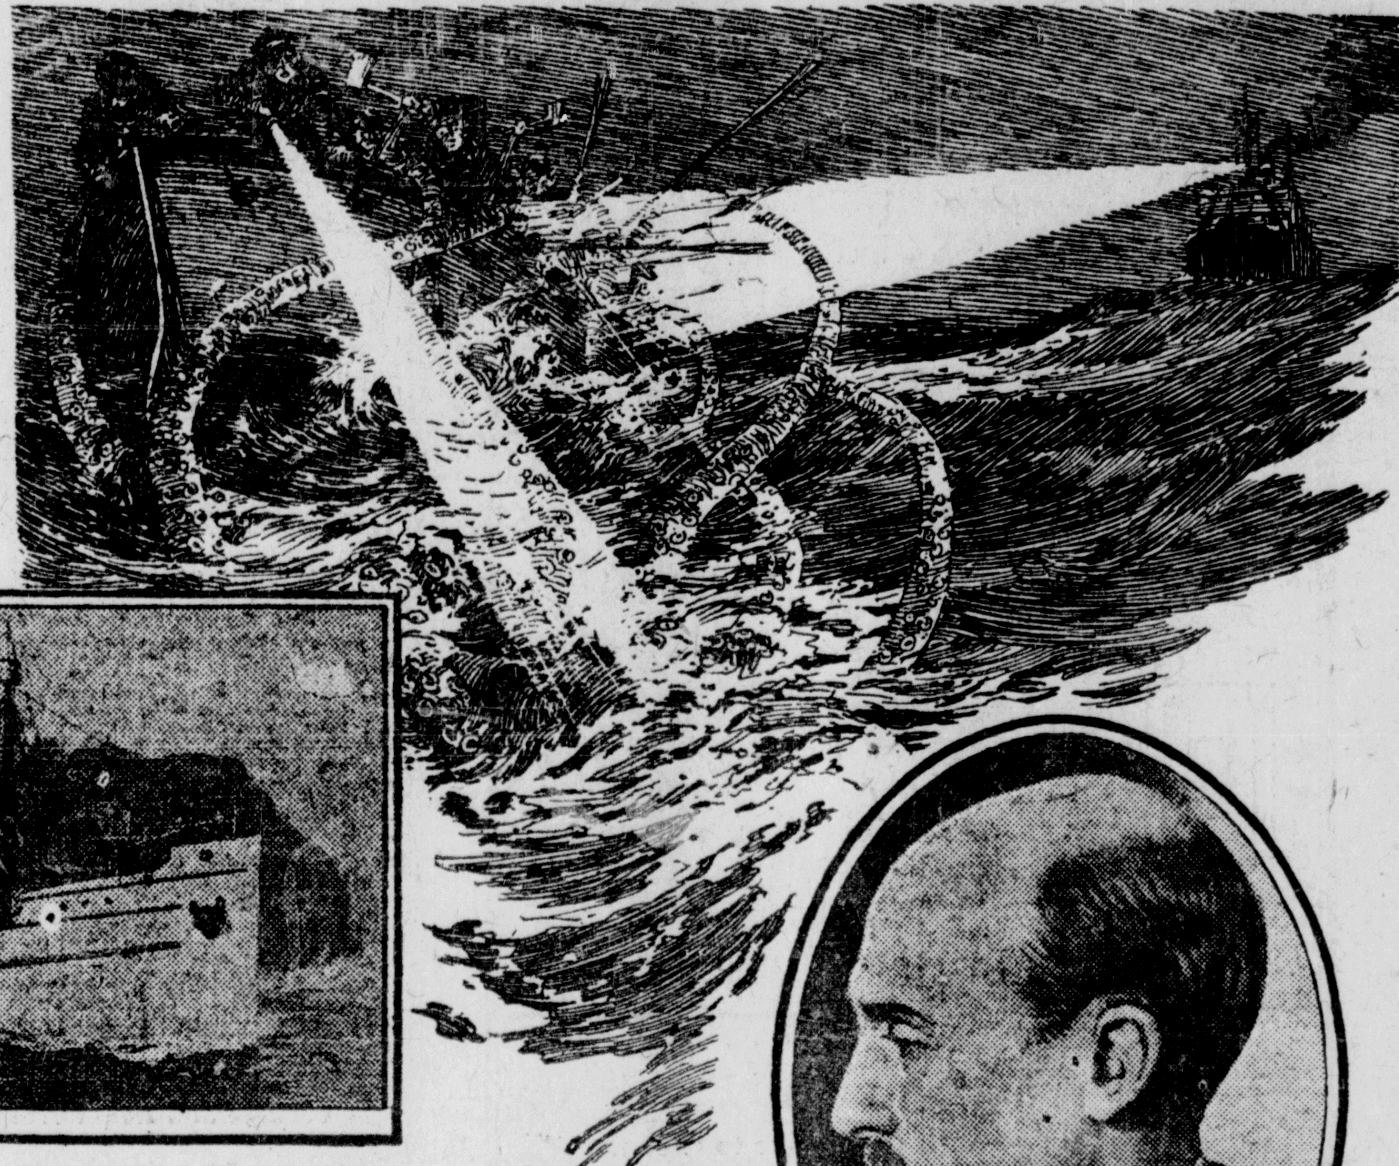

The S.S. "Arcturus," largest floating marine laboratory in the history of scientific exploration, which was fitted out by the New York Zoological Society to obtain complete data regarding the Sargasso Sea, one of the least-known portions of the earth's surface.

Below, along the sides of the ship, are fitted long rows of glass tanks electrically lighted.

A bell jingles and the craft loses way. The muffled thrum of her screw ceases, and in the ensuing quiet the weed drifts slowly together again, hemming her in. With a metallic roar the anchors splash down and the chain cables leap out through the hawse-holes in brown blurs. For minutes they put out, then slacken. Rolling slightly, the ship heads up to the swell and floats inert.

A Drama of Science
So begins the first chapter in the romantic tale of scientific inquiry and exploration which will search out the secrets of the Sargasso Sea—the ninth expedition of the department of Tropical Research of the New York Zoological Society, under the leadership of the well-known naturalist, William Beebe.

Anchored here in the depths of the illimitable sea-meadows, working night and day upon a host of scientific problems, the party will gather first-hand information upon one of the least-known and most widely misrepresented portions of the earth's surface.

William Beebe, eminent naturalist and veteran of many expeditions to the tropics, who was selected to lead the party of 14 scientists who will ferret out the age-old secrets of the Sargasso.

Much has been written about the Sargasso Sea. Its time-honored appellation, "The Sea of Dead Ships," has captured the imagination of a veritable army of writers who, never having been there themselves, have permitted their fancy to run riot among the clustering weed and the hot, currentless waters.

Sargasso Superstitions

There are weird tales of ships caught in the Sargasso Sea and unable to get out, found centuries later with the skeletons of all their crew lying in the tatters of their garments, victims of starvation and thirst. There are alluring stories of Spanish treasure galleons floating with all their gold in the deepest fastnesses of the weed. These have been highly colored romances based upon the idea of strange kingdoms in the secret depths of the sea, great collections of derelicts peopled by lost men, ruled by fierce-eyed, hairy sailors.

Such is the Sargasso Sea of fiction. In actuality it is vastly different. As a result of the circulation of ocean currents about a certain spot in the North Atlantic a thick accumulation of floating seaweed and other vegetation has formed there, as fotsam forms in the back waters of running streams. This spot, generally northeast of the West Indies, is roughly bounded by the latitudes 25 to 30 North and the longitudes 38 to 60 West.

A Little Known Field

But of the actual teeming life which swarms in and about, above and below this matting of twisted plant growth all too little scientific data are available. From the zoological point of view the Sargasso Sea and the depths beneath it are almost virgin territory. It is this field which the Arcturus and her little company of students have come to explore. The sun sinks to the west, plunging into the sea with a red flare and a burst of streamers across the sky. Almost at once the tropical darkness descends. Huge stars spring out in a sky like black velvet, pulsing and bluely white. The dark waters alongside are lit with a greenish glow.

Aboard the Arcturus there is a bustle of preparation. Hurrying figures pass and repass before the lighted ports; there is a creak of blocks and a gleam of flashlights as davits are swung out and the small boats prepared. Oars thump in rowlocks, and parallel whorls of phosphorescence mark their progress away from the ship.

The Flashlight's Lure

At a little distance they pause. The flashlights wink and creep upon the weed or glisten on the heaving swells. Nets are dipped and emptied, bringing up strange small creatures and fantastic fishes, fascinated by the lights. Microscopic algae are scooped up in millions and poured into receptacles to be studied and classified in the laboratories aboard the ship.

For hours the work goes on. Minute sea-horses, feathery and ragged as the weed itself, are brought up, almost indistinguishable in their coverts of kelp. Huge tropical medusae, filling a whole cask with their long, poisonous tentacles. Fish with brilliant stripings and mottlings in every hue, which glitter like jeweled ornaments. And at last a specimen of that rare thing, a Sargasso Fish, draws a delighted cry from one of the boats.

The others gather round until their thwarts touch, while their occupants peer at the curious little fish flapping in the rays of the flashlight. Not so remarkable in appearance, but very scarce—a female antennarius, lured away from the nest she had spun in the weed for her eggs, while her spouse kept watch.

In the days that follow other work is done. A small platform is swung from the boom and lowered over the ship's side. A man takes his place upon it, clad in a bathing suit and wearing a huge copper diving helmet on his head. The air pump is started, and man and platform sink slowly beneath the waves until they hang suspended some ten feet below the surface. From this point, looking up through the clear water at the bottom of the floating weed, the observer can study multifarious life there, limned against the light.

But suddenly a shadow passes to the right. Twisting the helmet around, he catches the long, ghostly gleam of a through the clinging weed like some strange monster rising from the sea, fugitive but triumphant.

Within half an hour he is under the water again on the other side of the boat, with another knife. Heroism is not entirely confined to battlefields.

Many nights are spent in deep-sea dragging, steaming slowly through the matted vegetation while along the bottom of the ocean, thousands of feet below, a great steel mesh gathers in the strange creatures of the abysses. The night is chosen, the better to observe the natural illuminating devices with which many of these fish are equipped, living as they do in the perpetual darkness of the profound depths where no sunlight ever penetrates.

De Profundis
Up comes the dragnet, dripping, and its ice-cold contents are emptied upon the deck. Under the combined rays of a dozen flashlights the black and shining heap of ooze is examined. Shapeless masses are separated out and laid aside, contorted almost out of recognition by their convulsive expansion when taken from the enormous pressure to which they are accustomed.

Creatures with gaping jaws armed with saber-like teeth, capable of swallowing and digesting masses larger than themselves; plant-like animals with flinty skeletons of exquisite delicacy and beauty; fantastic crawling forms and spidery creepers—all dead, but all susceptible of restoration and mounting under the skilled hands of the preparateur.

So, day after day, the work progresses, and the specimen tanks are slowly filled. Thousands of photographs shark's belly sliding past. The great fish is reconnoitering this strange phenomenon. Is it good to eat? Again it comes, closer this time, and the man in the helmet gives the signal to raise the platform. From his belt he draws a long, sharp knife.

The Shark Attacks

are taken, and hundreds of feet of motion-picture film. Vast quantities of notes are made; bookfuls of data accumulated. Special care is observed to set aside a series of specimens, well preserved, to be used in the submarine Sargasso Sea section which will be installed at the Museum of Natural History in New York.

And when all is completed the Arcturus noses her way out of the weed and sets a homeward course, bearing with her a priceless treasure-trove of new knowledge and discovery.

RESERVES TO PLAY COLLEGIANS HERE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The Xenia reserves will engage in their third game of the season Sunday afternoon at Washington Park when they take on the speedy Medway Collegians.

The Collegians, who have been organized for three seasons or more, have about the same team this season as they did last year. Hadix fast ball pitcher, is still doing the twirling for the Medway bunch while Greene is catching him last Sunday they lost their first game of the season to the Millards of Springfield by a 10 to 9 score in a free hitting game.

The Reserves have played two games to date and have won one and lost one. Last Sunday the Shrover Cubs beat them by a 6 to 3 count. The locals, erratic fielding cost them the game. They are not discouraged over the showing made as the Cubs have one of the best semi-pro nine, around these parts. "Jan" Ritter is the real hitting leader in the two games played having two safe blows to his credit out of five trips to the plate giving him an average of .400. Following is the batting for two games played.

ZIMMERMAN

A very interesting and well rendered program was given at this place Sunday morning by the public school pupils, under the direction of their week day teacher of religious education, Mrs. Behrend. The latter in explaining the work, said special emphasis is laid on the two great Commandments, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God, with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength," and "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thy self," that the children may be taught to make Love the keynote of their relations with each and all. The following program was given:

HALF A LOAF IS

BETTER THAN NONE

This is good advertising sense

Just because a man cannot afford to buy a whole bond issue doesn't keep him from purchasing bonds periodically and getting excellent return. This also works in advertising.

If you can possibly afford large ads, it is usually sound business policy to use them, but do not fail to advertise because you can afford only small ads. Many very substantial businesses have been built through the use of small ads.

One Philadelphia newspaper makes a specialty of getting to the small advertiser and helping him prepare copy and layouts which bring enormous returns. If you are not an advertiser, get an advertising man to talk things over with you and point out how you can profitably invest small or large sums of money in advertising.

COMMERCE CHAMBER RISES FROM GRAVE WITH SILLY INQUIRY

Who wants to back a new hotel for Xenia financially?

Dilver Belden, secretary, Greene County Auto Club, who has been receiving mail for the defunct Chamber of Commerce since that once important body passed out of existence, would like to know the names of such prospective hotel "angels" very much.

His curiosity has been piqued by receipt of a prospectus from The Lindsay Operating Association, chain hotel operators, New York City, who sent their inquiry here in answer to an advertisement that appeared in the Hotel Press, a hotel organ published in New York City.

The advertisement reads: "A first class hotel would receive much local financial support. A good restaurant is also needed. Chamber of Commerce, Xenia." The Lindsay Association expressed interest in the hotel proposition and asked how much local capital would be invested. The communication was addressed to the Chamber of Commerce but was delivered to the Auto Club.

Since the Chamber of Commerce has been only a memory for a long time, Belden believes he could find the "local financial support" about as easy as he could find that august body. Source of the advertisement which resulted in the inquiry is the mystery over which Auto Club officials are buzzing.

HUGHES ELECTED TO HEAD XENIA QUOIT CLUB COMING YEAR

James Hughes was unanimously elected president of the Xenia Quoit Club for the coming year at its reorganization meeting in the offices of the Ary Motor Sales Company, South Detroit Street, Monday night. J. T. Hibbert is retiring executive.

W. S. Sachs, a new member, was elected secretary, and Lawrence Wagner was re-elected treasurer.

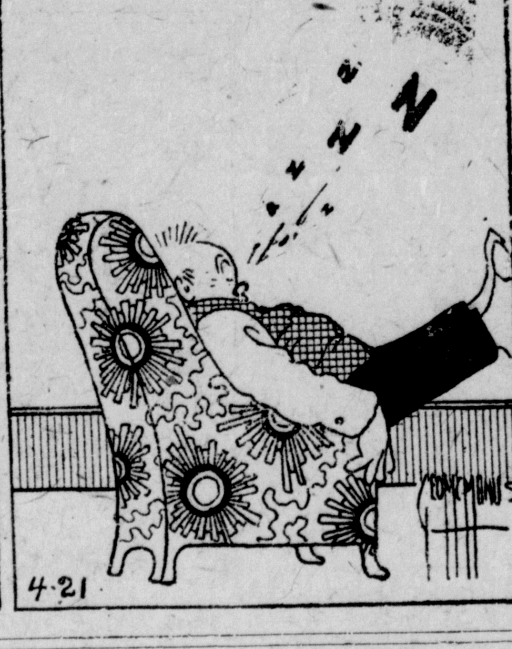

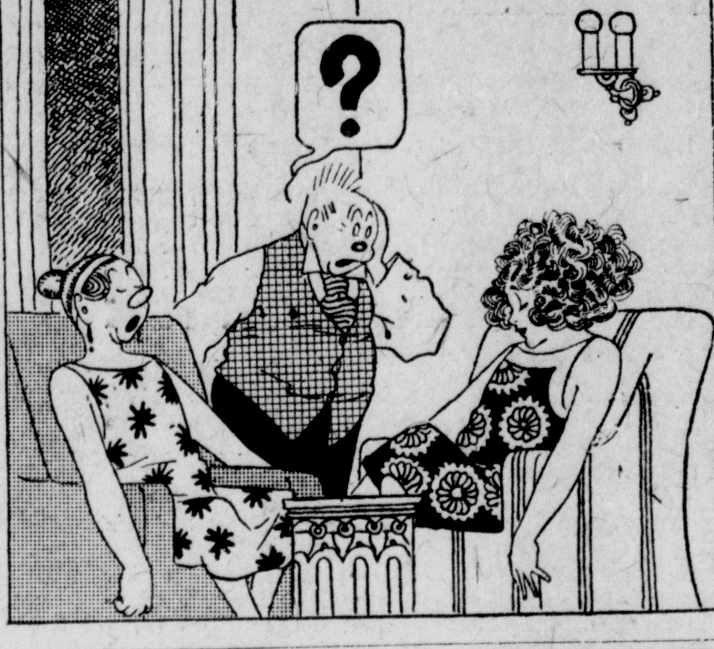

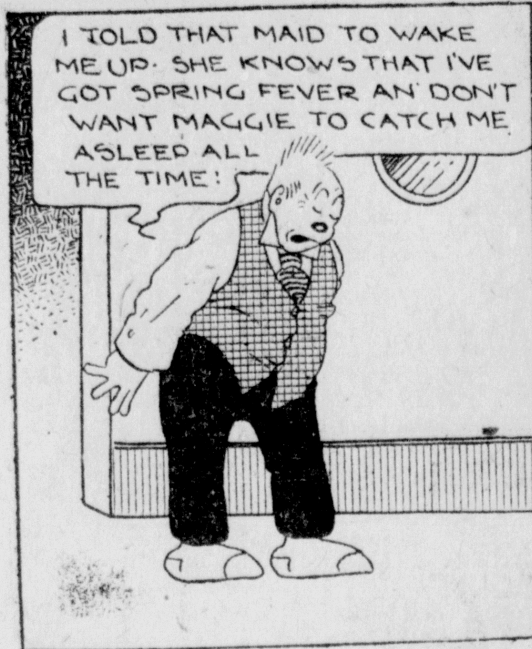

Preliminary plans for the removal of the quoit grounds, now located on East Market Street, to the new Shawanoose Park site in the Dodds Addition, were outlined at the meeting. The old grounds will not be available this year.

A banquet will be held Thursday, April 30, preliminary to an intensive drive for new memberships. Arch Jeffries was placed in charge of the Banquet Committee, with authority to appoint additional members. It has not been decided where to hold the banquet.

James Watkins, one of the original members of the club, was again placed in charge of the grounds committee, and will have complete charge of work of establishing the grounds at the proposed site on East Church Street.

It is the belief of officers that horse shoe pitching as well as quoits will be enthusiastically indulged in this year, and it is planned to set up several beds for the former sport on the new grounds. Several other minor committees were appointed.

BRINGING UP FATHER

MICHAEL'S MARRIAGE

By MICHAEL

CHAPTER XXI.

"Garson" moved about the table as if he had seen nothing. At this precise moment "Garson" gave the impression of being minus eyes and ears.

Michael's eyes burned fiercely at the table. He dared not look at the waiter, or at Lilah. It seemed to him as if "Garson" would never go. He had an impulse to knock the dishes from his hands and scream: "Get out, and stay out." The waiter woodenly chose this moment to suggest: "French pastries—only an hour out of the oven?" His hands eloquently suggested the deliciousness of the pastries.

"I would like some, Michael," Lilah spoke up. The evenness of her voice, devoid of any emotion, relieved the tension that gripped the man sitting opposite her.

"Garson" departed with a bow to Lilah, and re-entered immediately with the tray of pastries. Michael watched her as one hypnotized as she hovered over her selection. Then he absently indicated one himself.

When they were alone again, he said to her quietly: "I am going to kiss you."

Each word was enunciated clearly. He leaned toward her. She drew back, raising her hand.

"No, please—no!" She quickly glanced around. The manner of her response, her glance—they were sublime to Michael. He caught her hand again. "I love you, Lilah." He smiled. "You're going to hear me say that millions nad millions of times."

She seemed relieved when they rose to go. He helped her into his car tenderly. "Let's take a little turn around Beaver Park—you haven't an engagement for the afternoon, have you?"

She read his thoughts, and smiled. "Let's not go now, Michael. I want to go home... and think. It's all so wonderful."

Michael narrowly missed hitting another automobile. Lilah, alarmed, grabbed his arm.

"You're trying to keep me from kissing you, aren't you?" He smiled into the windshield. "Well, I'm going to kiss you before I allow you to go home."

He remembered at that moment one of Lonnie Cappers observations: "Never tell a girl you're going to kiss her. Just do it—they like them better when you surprise them. And it shows them you're a brave, devil may care fellow. Every girl remembers a man by their first kiss. In fact, girls classify men by kisses."

Michael glanced furtively at his companion. Her eyes were staring at the traffic. Had he erred in announcing his intention? Had he made a fool of himself? The wonderful feeling that had been permeating him melted away, and left him wretched. He was feeling the bitterness of doubt that goes with love.

They did not speak again until the automobile stopped before her house. He helped her out, and, with his hand securely gripping her arm, walked with her toward the door.

"When are you going away?" she broke the silence.

"I don't know now. I don't want to go at all."

"But, Michael, you mustn't let this stop you if it means anything to your career."

He loved her for that. "When were you planning to go?" she persisted.

"Saturday night."

"Oh... that's such a short time away." They stopped at her door, and she was looking at him through liquid eyes.

"May I come to see you tonight?"

She hesitated. "Yes."

He glanced around. No, damn it, too many persons were looking. He faced her again, unconsciously moistening his lips. A foolish sort of smile came upon his face. She answered his smile. Then, suddenly, she bent over and kissed him. Her aim was bad, and her lips met his cheek. He tried to hold her and press his mouth to her's, but she resisted and opened the door.

"Good-bye, until tonight," she called.

WHEELER DEFENSE CHANGES TACTICS

COUNSEL PLANS NEW ACTION TO COMBAT SURPRISE WITNESS

Testimony of New York Lawyer Throws Bomb Into Defense Program

Gréat Falls, Montana, April 21.—The defense began its fight in federal court here today to free Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana, of charges of misusing his office by receiving a fee to represent a client before the interior department.

With more than fifteen witnesses ready to testify, the plan of the defense was to consume at least two days in preparing its case.

Because of the sensational testimony of George B. Hayes, New York attorney, and surprise witness for the government, Wheeler's lawyers today abandoned plans to move immediately for an instructed verdict of acquittal.

Hayes testimony, coming as a complete surprise, admittedly fell with the force of a high explosive bomb in defense ranks and sent Wheeler's counsel into a conference that lasted until early today to map out new methods of combating the government's evidence.

John L. Slattery, United States attorney, called Hayes to sustain his charge to the jury that Wheeler posed at agreement to "make millions out of oil lands obtained from interior permits."

Hayes declared he met Wheeler in a New York hotel lobby on March 16, 1923, a day before Wheeler sailed for Europe. The conference was arranged by telegraph by Edwin S. Booth, former solicitor of the interior, Hayes said.

"We discussed permits of Gordon Campbell," Hayes testified.

Wheeler is accused of representing Campbell, a Montana oil operator. "Wheeler said he would split his fee with me if I would handle Campbell's troubles before the department," Hayes added. "He said he was a United States Senator and could not himself appear before the department. I think Wheeler stated the fee would run to a very considerable figure. I think he mentioned millions."

Hayes declined the offer because "he was not familiar with oil land litigation."

After this talk, Hayes said he went to Washington and saw Booth who declared, "I was very foolish because I would have very little to do; that he (Booth) would keep me advised about all of Campbell's transactions, and would help me."

"I was merely to represent Wheeler on Campbell's claims," Hayes declared.

ENGLAND AROUSED BY ACTIVITIES OF SOFIA COMMUNISTS

Press Claims Conspirators Are Working Against Peace Of Britain

London, April 21.—Communist activities in Europe apparently have aroused some fears in England.

"New and desperate bolshevik offensives are in full swing in a form which varies in accordance with the conditions in each country," the Daily Telegraph said today. "There are murders and armed uprisings in Bulgaria and labor strikes in Greece and industrial quarters nearer home."

Many dangerous communists have entered England recently, the newspaper said, and secret meetings of representatives from many capitals were continuing.

"The Sofia explosion sounds very loud in our ears because the same arch conspirators are at work against the peace of this country," the newspaper continued. The Daily Telegraph, a usually sound publication, and not given to rattling the bolshevik skeleton, said the communist aim was to capture the trade union movement in England.

TUBERCULAR CATTLE TESTS TO INCREASE DAIRY HERD VALUES

Will Raise Price Fifteen Million Dr. Zimmer Declares Now

Columbus, O., April 21.—Eradication of bovine tuberculosis in Ohio cattle, now possible under the Riggs plan of testing approved by the last legislature, will mean an increase in valuation of state dairy herds from $15,000,000 to $40,000,000, Dr. F. A. Zimmer, director of the division of animal husbandry of the state agricultural department, declare here today.

Valuation of each of the 1500 cattle in the state will be increased from $10 to $25 after they pass the tuberculin tests, Dr. Zimmer explained. Dairy products from tested cattle will also command relatively higher prices assuring Ohio farmers increased incomes.

Upwards of 60,000 cattle in Ohio are estimated to be affected with bovine tuberculosis and must be destroyed, it was said.

The appropriation of $700,000, allowed by the general assembly which is expected to be increased with some $300,000 allotted by the federal government for the work in this state, will permit the destruction of some 25,000 affected cattle during the next two years, Dr. Zimmer said.

The average price paid for destroyed cattle is $37.50. The federal government allowed Ohio $210,000 for tuberculosis eradication in the 1923-4 biennium, on a state appropriation of only $300,000, but the federal appropriation is not expected to be increased beyond $300,000 for the 1925-6 biennium because congressional appropriations for this purpose were not increased.

Ohio farmers in general are showing avidity to put their herds, both of cattle and hogs, under the tuberculin tests, not only because of the increase in value which is certain after cattle successfully pass the test, but also because of the higher prices for dairy products, beef and pork which they can command with tested herds, Dr. Zimmer said.

Already townships in more than 30 counties have applied to be preferred on the list for the area plan of testing, it was announced.

One delegation from Carroll County came personally to Columbus to request Dr. A. V. Truax, director of agriculture, to prefer their dairy herds on the testing list because of the premiums paid by Cleveland dairy companies for cream from tested herds.

The Riggs act which becomes law in July, will permit a majority of resident herd owners in a township, representing 75 per cent of the cattle in the area, to petition for tuberculin test. The agriculture department is then permitted to test the herds and destroy cattle found to be infected. The act also provides that when 75 per cent of the cattle in a township have been tested, the remaining cattle in the area may be quarantined to protect the tested animals. When 90 per cent of cattle in a township have been tested, the act provides that he remaining ten per cent must submit to the test.

"Making Ends Meet" Subject of Interesting Talk at Gazette-Republican Program—Crowds Greet Lecturer at Opening of School.

That women like Mrs. Brown-Lewers was fully evidenced by the fact that McKinley School Auditorium was filled to capacity with an enthusiastic and most attentive audience Tuesday afternoon at the first of the series of lectures and cookery lessons this expert is giving under the auspices of The Evening Gazette and The Morning Republican.

The members of her class listened with almost breathless interest while this very attractive and helpful lecturer showed in her talk on "Making Ends Meet" how much might be saved, not in money alone, but in happiness and in wear and tear on the spirit by the intelligent use of a carefully planned household budget. Mrs. Brown-Lewers said that making the budget was a matter for the whole family, even the children having their part in it, as a feature of their training was helping to bear their share of the family burdens, while the carrying out of the budget was a test of will power.

Xenia housewives who are continually harassed through the failure of their well-meant efforts at making ends meet, received in Mrs. Brown-Lewers' talk on budgeting much of help and sane advice on this phase of the housewife's duty. Mrs. Brown-Lewers dealt with this subject in a comprehensive and thoroughly intelligible manner.

"Seventy-five per cent of the expenditures for living expenses in the United States are made by women," Mrs. Brown-Lewers said. "The problem, then, is for the housewife to learn some of the particular pitfalls to avoid." The reasons for the failure of the average family budget were given by Mrs. Brown-Lewers as follows: an ignorance of values in relation to prices; pampering the individual tastes as to standards of living; lack of co-operation; lack of determination to adhere to the regulations of the budget system. Charge accounts were discouraged by Mrs.

FAMILIES DESERT HOMES WHILE FIRE WRECKS BUILDING

Cleveland Warehouse Destroyed In $400,000 Blaze—Alcohol Spreads Flame

Cleveland, April 21.—Fanned by high winds, a spectacular fire destroyed a five story warehouse building in Oregon Avenue north-east today causing loss estimated at $400,000.

The fire broke out just after midnight and it was not until daylight this morning that firemen succeeded in preventing the spread of the flames from the warehouse to buildings nearby.

Alcohol stored in the warehouse, made all efforts to save the warehouse futile. Within a few minutes of the time of turning in the alarm, the building was a high blazing torch. Flames shot more than one hundred feet into the air and sparks were carried for blocks by the wind.

More than a dozen families residing in the neighborhood were forced to flee from their homes, some scantily attired.

The origin of the fire was undetermined.

The warehouse was owned by the Morreu Company, manufacturers of gas appliances and occupied by them jointly with the Mayburn Food Products Company.

AMERICAN BUSINESS EXTENDS AID TO EUROPE THROUGH CREDIT FLOOD

Washington, April 21.—American business has launched a tremendous campaign to put stricken Europe back on her financial feet by extending a flood of credit to foreign customers, according to information obtained today from government sources.

This great credit flood, rivaling the palmyest war loan periods, has totalled hundreds of millions of dollars since the first of the year. On its ebb tide, however, there came back to the United States over $1,270,000,000 in cash payments on goods sold abroad during the first three months of 1925.

Credit terms are being liberalized to America's customers around the world. Current indebtedness to exporters of this country is estimated at from $300,000,000 to $400,000,000 while there is a vast sum of "past due" debts, some of which have been written off as uncollectable.

Delay of foreign governments in

Brown-Lewers in her discussion of the value of budgets.

Housewives were warned against the misuse of the left-overs, which the speaker said, constituted a decided cause of waste. "In the first place," she said, "the left-over should not exist at all. But if there are left-overs it is the part of economy to see to it that they are of the less expensive and more easily worked-over foods. And there is another too prevalent absurdity in the custom of using expensive first-service materials with left-overs and calling the result economy."

Mrs. Brown-Lewers is entirely at home on the lecture platform and speaks with a readiness which makes for the comfort of her audience. No matter how busy she is, making pies and cakes and salads and other good things for her audience to see and to sample, she always is mindful of the women who make up her large audiences, speaking slowly and clearly, so as to be heard even in the furthest seat. She realizes that women like to talk as well as to listen, and every once in a while, as she beats a cake or cuts shortening into flour for the most wonderful pastry, she declares a recess, and allows the women to exchange comments on the relative merits of the lecturer's methods and their own.

She recommends that the first thing to be done in baking a cake or in preparing any dish for the family, is to assemble on a tray all materials and utensils needed. The use of level and accurate measurements also was urged.

Again and again remarks were heard commending the lecturer's suggestions "I'm going to try that as soon as I go home," said one woman when Mrs. Brown-Lewers recommended a piece of canvas for a pastry board.

Mrs. Brown-Lewers constantly disapproves the old adage that one cannot do two things at once. All the time while she works she talks, explaining each step in each cookery process, cheerfully answering questions of her class, thus making this a real school.

She considers it one of the most successful schools she has ever conducted, and is already looking forward to coming to Xenia next year.

Wednesday she will talk entertainingly and instructively on the subject, "Hungry all the Time," explaining in simple, everyday phraseology something of food values, and how to choose and prepare foods, that will satisfy the different members of the family according to their different needs—the child, the office man, the outdoor worker, the business woman, and the housekeeper herself, who very unwisely sometimes forgets her own food requirements in her efforts to look after the rest of her family.

More recipes will be given out, more delicious foods prepared and more prizes given. Coming days are to be the best. Come early, bring your note-book and make this school count in your housekeeping and homemaking.

It is with pleasure that the Gazette and the Republican are now able to announce an additional attraction for the week, for A. Thornhill and Son, furniture manufacturers and dealers, have presented a kitchen cabinet to the school that will be given to one of the women attending Friday, the last day of the school.

A musical program preceded the actual opening of the school Tuesday afternoon. Miss Helen Ford sang, accompanied on the piano by Miss Lucille Denham. Other musical numbers will feature each afternoon's program. The O. S. and S. O. Home Band, under direction of Professor Seall will furnish Wednesday's musical program.

JAPANESE STEAMER SENDS DANGER CALL OFF ATLANTIC COAST

Vessels Rush To Aid Frightened Crew—Radio Tells Story

Boston, April 21.—The Japanese steamer Raifuku Maru sent out an S. O. S. call today, while about 600 miles east of New York.

Several ships reported to the shore by radio that they were rushing to the assistance of the Maru.

The dramatic story of the race against time by the rescue steamships was written through the air in radio messages.

The steamship President Adams, Homeric and Scythia all joined in the race to succor the struggling Japanese ship. Last word from the Maru was that a lifeboat had been smashed and that the wind was getting less angry.

Messages from the Maru were in the broken English of the Japanese schoolboy type made famous by Wallace Irwin.

The first "sos" said: "Ship 59 degrees low. Please quick assistance." The Maru's position was given as latitude 41:32 north longitude, 61:41 west.

Out of the air immediately came the quick response of the steamship President Adams saying:

"Heard Maru's call coming to your assistance."

There was no answer. The Adams radioed again.

Then came another call from the Maru it said:

"Ship meeting heavy weather and held starboard twenty eight degrees. Smashed lifeboat into boards and danger."

Five minutes later this from the Maru:

"In great danger; great danger quick hurry."

At this point the steamship Scythia rushed into the picture with a radio-gram telling the Maru's radio operator to get compass bearing from Cape Race. The Scythia gave her position as 41:58 north, 65:47 west.

Next came the steamship Homeric, saying that she too was hurrying to the Maru's aid.

The last message from the Japanese said:

"No wind danger, but coming; lifeboat from sixty miles there."

The Maru carries a crew of approximately thirty officers and men. She was bound from Boston to Ham-burg with a valuable cargo of grain.

The President Adams, the nearest ship to the Maru, had a dash of 163 miles to make to reach the Maru's side.

CAPTAIN YANKOFF IS SLAIN WHILE BEING CAPTURED BY POLICE

Companion of Minkoff, Also Killed; Deny Other Deaths

Sofia, April 21.—Captain Yankoff, second of the pair of communist leaders regarded by the government as the arch conspirators responsible for the loss of 160 lives in the Sveti Kral cathedral bombing was shot and killed by police today. His companion, Minkoff, was killed resisting arrest yesterday.

Yankoff was beset by police in a house where he had taken shelter with other communists. When officers attempted an entrance, the radicals threw bombs at them. The police replied with a volley of revolver shots killing him.

It was generally believed today that Yankoff and Minkoff were responsible for placing the huge bomb in the belfry of the cathedral, supplemented with lesser charges of explosives in other places around the old edifices.

Sofia, April 21.—The Bulgarian government today officially denied reports of wholesale executions following the bombing of the Sveti Kral cathedral. It was stated there were no rebellious outbreaks justifying such strenuous steps.

The Sobranje, or Bulgarian parliament, reopened today and was expected to confirm the proclamation of martial law taken as a preventive measure, as well as the government's plans for keeping peace. Members of the opposition were pledged to support the government during the crisis.

Of the 500 suspects arrested, those who were found unconnected with communist activities, have been released and trials of the others will follow as soon as possible.

It seemed fairly well established that the attack on King Boris two days before the cathedral catastrophe was engineered by bandits who came from Siberia.

Berlin, April 21.—The German political police today arrested two Bulgarian students charged with complicity in the Sofia assassination. The students immediately started a hunger strike.

Berlin, April 21.—King Boris of Bulgaria was displeased at alleged harsh methods of the government taken following the Sveti Kral cathedral bombing, according to reports here today. It was said the young ruler felt that the government was over strenuous.

The local mile relay team is composed of Jones, Perry, B. Ware and D. Ware.

More than thirty Ohio high schools were entered in the meet and East's feat in placing in the relay event is quite an achievement when it is considered that this is only its second year of participation in track.

East will also be entered in the Southwestern Division of Ohio High Schools track meet to be held at Miami University, Oxford, O., May 16.

East will be entered in several of the events as follows: 100 yard dash—B. Ware and Hall; 220 yard dash—B. Ware and Jones; 440 yard dash—Perry and Roney; 880 yard dash—Byrd and Williamson; one mile run—Ford, D. Ware, Lynn and Roney; one mile relay—Jones, Perry, B. Ware and D. Ware; high jump—Corbett, Lynn and Newsum; broad jump—Corbett, D. Ware and Thomas; shot put—Charles Smith and "Buddy" Raymond.

CONDITION BAD

Athens, April 21—Miss Irma Stanfield, Athens County's Red Cross relief worker, declared that conditions in the Hocking Valley coal field have not been so bad in years. She reported that hundreds of miners are unable to buy seed for their gardens, that many families are actually starving and that no relief is in sight.

THE SECRET of more tempting foods

Tests by Domestic Science teachers over all the country have revealed in Crisco unique advantages:

In deep frying, they noticed that Crisco put a rich brown on croquette s and doughnuts. They noticed, too, that an egg fried in Crisco looked as delicately delicious as a poached egg—the white unscorched and the edges of the yolk set like a full moon in an ivory circle.

Their Crisco cake layers came out of the pans whole, without any ragged little breaks to mar their beauty. Their cakes, too, had a wonderfully even texture, and stayed moist and fresh for days.

And pie-crusts made with Crisco were rich-brown, inviting—short and flaky.

So it is not surprising that Mrs. Mary Brown-Lewers uses Crisco exclusively in the Cooking School now being conducted by this newspaper. She will be glad to show you how you, too, can serve—with the aid of Crisco—crisp, digestible fried foods; flaky, tender pastry; delicious, full-flavored cakes.

DR. FINLEY ADDRESSES CENTRAL P. T. A. MONDAY

The clothing of the women and girls of today is not conducive to good health, was the statement of Dr. W. H. Finley, local physician, in a talk before the Central High School Parent Teacher Association, Monday afternoon.

The physician deplored the wearing of silk hose, tight fitting shoes and insufficient clothes for warmth and comfort. He told the mothers and teachers it was "up to them" to set the proper example for the school girls in the matter of dress and morals. He declared the home and the school were the places where propriety should be taught.

It is harder to rear a family today than it was twenty years ago, Dr. Finley said, because there are more things to combat that seek to tear down moral resistance. He said the general moral code has lessened, citing for example the one-piece bathing suit, which a few years ago would not have been tolerated, but is now looked upon as proper. He said the same thing as to women smoking and declared that the moral weakening was due to ignorance and public lack of interest.

Three important essentials for good health are rest, diet and proper clothing, Dr. Finley said. Every school pupil should have at least eight hours of sleep each night and should not go to bed later than 10 o'clock. Every child in school should eat a hearty breakfast to combat weakness through the day, he said.

The P. T. A.'s fight against immoral literature in the schools was the subject of an interesting talk by Mrs. Minor W. Monroe. She spoke of the plans of the association for the city fight and urged the co-operation of the public.

The High School P. T. A. will sponsor a party at the high school, Friday evening, April 24, when a motion picture, "The Small Town Guy" will be shown, followed by a social time. The party is to be given for the pupils of the school and members of the organization.

The treasurer reported that the association has $89.71 in the bank and had spent $170.91 within the past few months to buy books for the school library. More library material will be purchased later. After the business meeting, Miss Juanita Buttz played a piano solo.

Health Hints by the Father of Physical Culture

Closely in touch with the blood vessels everywhere in the tissue, are the sweat glands. Through these the surplus moisture and its dissolved impurities are filtered and absorbed by them. As they fill with this waste moisture and its dissolved contents, they empty themselves upon the outer surface of the epidermis.

Under ordinary circumstances this moisture is not visible, and is then called insensible perspiration. But when, on account of unusual muscular exertion or increase of external or internal heat, the sweat glands are very actively worked, the perspiration exudes in visible drops. In either case the perspiration is evaporated and removed by the air, and thus the depurating work that the kidneys do not do is performed by the skin.

It is clear, then, why exercise and deep breathing, by hastening the flow of the blood and sending more oxygen through the body to assist in the removal of waste matter, aid in getting rid of impurities through the urine and the sweat. As has been explained, before, a great deal of the waste matter of the body is exhaled from the lungs every time that an expiration takes place.

But what of the waste matter left after the food has been digested and what of the food swallowed but not digested? By the time that the food is out of the small intestine the nourishment has been pretty thoroughly extracted from it. From the small intestine the food residue is passed into the large intestine, or colon, often known as the lower bowel. The shape of the colon is something like that of a horseshoe, with the arch, or transverse colon, uppermost. All the way along the colon the food residue is forced or passed on, by the continued contractions of the involuntary muscles of the intestine.

The food residue, in the form of feces, passes on until, from the lower end of the descending colon, it is expelled through the rectum. As in the case of the kidneys and the skin, exercise aids in the expulsion of waste matter through the colon. Exercises that strongly affect the abdominal region build up the strength of the involuntary muscles of the colon, and thus aid in the expulsion of waste by this channel.

ALLEGED BURGLARS PLEAD GUILTY WHEN ARRAIGNED TUESDAY

Pleading guilty to a joint charge of burglary and larceny, Urschel White, 19, Forrest Sybold, 19, and Harry Franz, all of Springfield, were bound over to the May term of the grand jury, by Magistrate J. E. Jones in Justice of the Peace Court early Tuesday afternoon. The trio was remanded to the County Jail unable to give bond of $500 each.

The three men were charged with only one offense at their arraignment Monday, that of entering and robbing the Reeves and Bryant Clothing Store at Jamestown last week of between $1,000 and $1,500 in men's haberdashery.

White and Sybold were arrested after a gun battle in Gallipolis, O., Sunday and returned to Xenia for prosecution in connection with five recent mysterious burglaries and robberies in the county. The third member of the alleged gang, Franz, was placed under arrest at his Springfield residence the same day.

A complete confession by White given in the presence of Sheriff Morris Sharp, implicating Sybold and Franz, is thought by authorities to have practically cleared up the series of thefts.

A sixth member of the alleged bandit gang is said to be still at large, but efforts are being made to apprehend and prosecute the entire bandit ring in Greene County where they are said to have committed a majority of their offenses. The charge carries a penalty of from one to fifteen years in the penitentiary.

PAIR IS HELD AFTER AUTOS COLLIDE AT TREBEINS MONDAY

Albert Kendrick, colored, East Church Street, will be arraigned in Probate Court Wednesday on a charge of operating a vehicle while intoxicated.

Lester Roberts, colored, this city, will be arraigned with Kendrick on a charge of drunk, following the arrest of the pair Monday night on the Dayton Pike after a head-on collision between two automobiles. Both were released from custody after entering $500 appearance bonds.

Kendrick and Roberts were arrested Monday night by Patrolmen Fred Jones and Ed Craig after they are alleged to have collided with a Chevrolet sedan owned and driven by H. Ballar, Dayton, at the railroad crossing at Trebeins.

The Ballar machine was being driven toward Dayton, while Kendrick was driving his car toward Xenia.

The Chevrolet was badly smashed, and the six occupants slightly bruised up. All escaped serious injuries.

Arresting officers confiscated two bottles with alcoholic contents, they said.

SLIGHT SMALLPOX CASES REPORTED

Three residents of Spring Valley, whom Dr. R. H. Grube, Xenia, county health commissioner, said were suffering from smallpox, have recovered after being ill only a few days.

The disease attacked each of the persons alike and left after a few days, with no serious results. Leo Willenburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leg Willenburg; Ernest Knee and Herman Blair, all of Spring Valley, were stricken with what was thought to be grip, but after a day's illness, skin eruptions developed. Their homes were quarantined but since the patients recovered in a few day's time, the quarantine was lifted.

Several other people in Spring Valley have had slight attacks of the disease, it is said, but because of the mild form, the cases were not reported to Dr. Grube. No new cases of the disease have developed within the past few days.

BROWN GASOLINE TAX EFFECTIVE ON WEDNESDAY IS WORD

Columbus, O., April 21.—The Brown act, levying a two cents a gallon tax on all gasoline sold for consumption on Ohio highways became a law at 11:03 today when it was signed in the senate by Lieutenant Governor Lewis. Collection by the state begins tomorrow.

Xenia motorists had apparently resigned themselves to the two cent surcharge of gasoline imposed Sunday by refining companies for protection pending litigation on the question when the Brown gas law became effective.

Governor Donahey's warning to ten of the largest oil companies in the state to begin issuing refund coupons for the two cent tax until the matter is definitely determined did not affect local companies, which had merely raised the price on gasoline two cents, without mention of the tax.

The Brown tax bill became a law following a ruling by the state attorney general that the tax would become effective as soon as it was signed by Lieutenant Governor Lewis. The bill is not subject to referendum, according to the ruling.

It is generally believed that the attorney general in deciding the bill was not subject to a referendum vote of the people believed it to be a direct tax measure with a subsequent direct tax levy.

The price of gasoline at the local fuel stations remained fixed at 22½ cents Tuesday.

Columbus, O., April 21.—The state of Ohio lost approximately $100,000 in gasoline tax receipts by delay until today in signing of the Brown act by Lieutenant Governor Lewis. It was reported at the state house.

Had the act been signed Saturday immediately after it was signed by Speaker Harry D. Silver in the house, the act would have become law that day and the collection of the tax would have been started Sunday. The average daily collection of tax are expected to average $35,000 and the three days loss of receipts represents a loss to the state of slightly more than $100,000, it was said.

Senate officials explained the act was not delivered to them from the house clerks office until just before it was signed today.

Modish Mitzi—Aunt Sophia Meets Any Occasion—Fashionably By JAY V. JAY

Dad hasn't been so popular in 20 years. In fact, he can't remember the time when three charming young women met him at the train all at once. But Mitzi Polly and Adelaide can't wait any longer for information leading to the capture of Dad's friend who's coming from England.

Neither does Adelaide obtain satisfaction or information. Dad seems highly amused by the excitement, but he does have time to notice that Adelaide's hat becomes her. It is a black felt with a Parisian cut to its crown and is trimmed with a band of white felt and nothing more.

Even Polly discovers nothing. All she gets is a curtain lecture from Dad about the dangers run by pretty young women who vamp elderly men. Or perhaps he is saying how becoming her hat is. He doesn't know, but it is one of the smart new bangs in Alcazar red, shaped like a sun helmet.

AMERICAN WORKER NOT RED

THERE are many reasons "Why the American Worker Is Not Red," declares Secretary of Labor James J. Davis in a most enlightening article in the current issue of the National Republican. The doctrines of red radicalism or communism have never found lodgement in the minds of the American worker because of the fact that he always has before him the opportunity to remove himself by his industry, ingenuity and thrift from the ranks of the workers to a higher plane in the economic life of the country, Mr. Davis declares.

The American worker, he continues, is the best paid worker in the world. He enjoys the best working conditions and the highest standards of living of the workers of any nation. He is unwilling to risk the loss of these opportunities and advantages either for himself or his children by fostering any scheme of government that would overthrow the system under which these conditions have been won and he is not ignorant of the effect which communism would have upon these things. A prominent economist recently pointed out that the number of stockholders in our industries have increased from 4,400,000 in 1900 to 14,400,000 today indicating the shifting of ownership from the wealthy to the middle and wage-earning classes of our people. The reports of railroad stock ownership likewise illustrates the tendency towards a greater participation by our wage earners in stock ownership. The New York Central recently announced that in three weeks 41,370 of their employees had subscribed for stock, the company offering 35,000 shares of stock for which there was a subscription demand by the employees for 96,000 shares, one out of every four being a subscriber.

The success of the customer ownership plan among our public utilities is another evidence of the tendency of the American worker to become a capitalist. Three telephone companies recently offered a preferred stock issue and 118,799 of their subscribers took 733,676 shares. Among these there were 2,627 accountants, 527 barbers, 10,744 clerks, 21,626 housewives, 24,317 laborers, 1,043 members of the building trades, 4,101 stenographers, 468 tailors, 498 domestics and 398 newspaper men. Another index is the fact that the bulk of savings bank depositors are wage earners and workers receiving small salaries. In 1912 there were 12,584,000 savings bank depositors with deposits of $9,400,000,000 while in 1924 the deposits were $20,874,000,000 with 38,868,000 depositors. That is, the number of depositors in savings banks exceeded one third of the population of the United States.

These evidences that the American worker generally is accumulating capital in all directions should make it clear why the fanatic preachings of false economic and political doctrines which would abolish capital have no appeal to him.

ready illustration. Normally, this county produces about two-third of the cotton crop of the world, and of our production we export commonly from 55 to 60 per cent. Our market is absolutely free to the buyers of the world. They may come here for our raw cotton, take it home, turn it into fabrics, and if they are clever enough, which they often are, sell it back to us. Not only do they have this privilege, but to an impressive extent they have availed of it. We import nearly half as many yards of cotton cloth annually as we export.

Moreover, as the President points out, our imports, especially of fine goods, have been increasing rapidly during the past few years. Those who believe that the present tariff law is stifling world trade would do well to go into our stores, great and small, and take an inventory of the multitude of foreign products on sale there.

THE STIR OF SPRING

In the mystery of all birth is found the beauty of all life.

To me the stir of spring, just before it bursts forth from the ground and opens its eyes in buds and blooms, is the miracle of all miracles.

I would feel the loss of an entire year in which I did not walk in the midst of the movements of spring.

And when I speak of spring I mean the northern spring with its wonder of contrasts and its opening smiles after the long days of winter.

I arise early these days so that I may not miss a single note or song from my recently returned friends who have wintered in the south. I see them from my window that overhangs the woods and watch them as they drink from the spring just below. Soon little Jenny Wren will be here, and then there will be a riot of happy songs as the new nest is made in the tiny house that hangs from the gum tree over the waterfall.

I now see the pink of the peach blossom poking its life into the sunlight and in a day or so it will glow in its bridal gown beside the white of the cherry.

I have been walking in the woods and meeting my old flower friends of just a year ago who have been away for so long. I have lifted sticks and removed pieces of board or a stone here and there that they might better spread their shoots and blossom sooner.

Where do all these colorings come from anyway? Yellow, blue, violet, red, white, pink, orange. All in their exquisite gowns as they march in perfect order to fulfill their mission in the carnival of beauty wrapped in the springtime.

There is such a pungent flavor to spring, too! Everything fresh and new and promising.

No one should be unhappy during the springtime. It should be the time of the year when the heart lets the sunshine in.

GOVERNMENT WILL SURVEY EARTHQUAKES IN HOPES OF FORECASTING SUCH UPHEAVALS

Washington, April 21.—The government is setting out to make an exhaustive and scientific study of earthquakes, with a view to ultimately predicting these vast upheavals of nature in advance—just as thunder showers, storms and high winds are now predicted with remarkable accuracy.

Announcement was made today that the survey will be undertaken by the United States coast and geodetic survey. It will take months, but the scientists who have it in charge are confident that ultimately they will be able to give advance notice of the probable time and place of future tremors, and the results will more than justify the time and expense involved.

No section of the United States is immune from destructive upheavals although there are well recognized "earthquake" zones, William Bowie, a survey scientist, said today. Earth tremors of varying intensity are recorded almost daily on seismographs along the Pacific coast, the Atlantic seaboard and the state's bordering on the Mississippi river. More than three hundred earthquakes occur every day in some part of the world.

"Earthquakes can be predicted as to time and place, but the strength of the tremor is uncertain, the element of time is uncertain and the area large," Bowie told the International News Service. "We may say with certainty for instance, that there will be an earthquake on the Pacific coast within the next week. But with our present limited knowledge of the changes in the earth's crust and underlying disturbances we cannot predict its intensity."

"Within the next century a heavy destructive earthquake is likely to occur along the Atlantic Coast. The east cannot sit back and consider itself more secure from quakes than the far west."

It is reasonably certain that we shall have a heavy earthquake during the coming century in the Mississippi valley. In 1811 a destructive tremor occurred in the vicinity of New Madrid, Mo.

"Rain fundamentally is responsible for the earthquake, the scientist explained. The horsepower generated by the million miles of rain that have fallen since the earth was new, has made and remade mountains, formed continents, transformed the seas to plateaus and wrought other geological changes beyond man's comprehension.

"Rain wearing away the soil and moving great masses of sediment to the margins of oceans, causes great changes in elevation of the earth's surface."

"Earthquakes and volcanoes are merely incidents in the general process of geological evolution. We have earthquakes as the sediment depresses the crust, as the crust below awells up to form mountains, as the crust is buoyed up under the areas undergoing rapid wearing away, and as the crust cools and sinks under worn down mountain areas."

YOUTH WHO KILLED GRANDMOTHER NOT MOVED BY SENTENCE

Pottsville, Pa., April 21.—William Cavalier, 15 year old slayer of his aged grandmother, will hear Judge R. H. Koch sentence him to the electric chair next Monday.

But the youngest murderer ever to be convicted in the first degree in Pennsylvania, is un-moved by this nearness to death.

In the detention home of the county Jail here, William is too occupied in playing, reading and head work to think of his fate. He chatters about his handicraft, the summer, baseball and detective stories.

"Say, what makes the beads stay in that way?" he asked as the woman teaching him the craft, deftly twisted a pattern to completion.

It wasn't a stupid question; it was the inquisitiveness of a boy learning a new craft.

He took it in his hands—hands larger than many men—and studied it.

"Yes I guess I'll get the juice," he answered unconcernedly when reminded he had been refused a new trial, and the supreme penalty would be demanded for his crime.

Quickly he went back to asking questions about the bead work.

Once he stopped to give an explanation of the murder, in answer to an inquiry.

"I was sitting on the porch that day," he began. "I had the rifle across my lap. I wasn't doing anything, just thinking. Then I felt queer—that way I often felt before. I saw red and I—well, after that I don't know what happened."

CHILD BITTEN BY COLLIE PLAYMATE

Folger Hunt, three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hunt, who live on the Wilmington-Xenia Pike five miles from Wilmington, was badly bitten by a collie dog which had been his playmate from infancy, Saturday. The boy and dog had been romping in the yard, when the dog suddenly whirled and fastened its teeth in the child's right upper arm. It is said the child approached the dog while it was eating.

Mr. Hunt immediately shot the dog and decapitated it, sending the head to the Clinton County Health Department, which forwarded it to the State Department of Health, at Columbus, for examination for rabies.

Why Knox Sparkling Gelatine Is Used at the Cooking School

THE foods used in the demonstration lessons by Mrs. Mary Brown-Lewers at the Home Economics Cooking School, now being conducted by the Xenia Gazette and Republican at the McKinley Auditorium, have been selected after years of tests for purity, surety, and economy.

Knox Sparkling Gelatine, which is the purest form of unflavored and unsweetened gelatine, saves its cost many times over in making fruits, vegetables, and meat go much further. One package of Knox Gelatine will serve six people at four different meals with a different dessert or salad, while a package of ready flavored gelatine serves but one meal.

Knox Sparkling Gelatine is especially selected for desserts, salads, meat loaves, and many other delicacies—to say nothing of its great health value

KNOX SPARKLING GELATINE

A half-teaspoon of Knox Gelatine, dissolved and added to a glass of milk will increase the nourishment obtainable from the milk by about 23 per cent.

AMERICAN WORKER NOT RED

THERE are many reasons "Why the American Worker Is Not Red," declares Secretary of Labor James J. Davis in a most enlightening article in the current issue of the National Republican. The doctrines of red radicalism or communism have never found lodgement in the minds of the American worker because of the fact that he always has before him the opportunity to remove himself by his industry, ingenuity and thrift from the ranks of the workers to a higher plane in the economic life of the country, Mr. Davis declares.

The American worker, he continues, is the best paid worker in the world. He enjoys the best working conditions and the highest standards of living of the workers of any nation. He is unwilling to risk the loss of these opportunities and advantages either for himself or his children by fostering any scheme of government that would overthrow the system under which these conditions have been won and he is not ignorant of the effect which communism would have upon these things. A prominent economist recently pointed out that the number of stockholders in our industries have increased from 4,400,000 in 1900 to 14,400,000 today indicating the shifting of ownership from the wealthy to the middle and wage-earning classes of our people. The reports of railroad stock ownership likewise illustrates the tendency towards a greater participation by our wage earners in stock ownership. The New York Central recently announced that in three weeks 41,370 of their employees had subscribed for stock, the company offering 35,000 shares of stock for which there was a subscription demand by the employees for 96,000 shares, one out of every four being a subscriber.

The success of the customer ownership plan among our public utilities is another evidence of the tendency of the American worker to become a capitalist. Three telephone companies recently offered a preferred stock issue and 118,799 of their subscribers took 733,676 shares. Among these there were 2,627 accountants, 527 barbers, 10,744 clerks, 21,626 housewives, 24,317 laborers, 1,043 members of the building trades, 4,101 stenographers, 468 tailors, 498 domestics and 398 newspaper men. Another index is the fact that the bulk of savings bank depositors are wage earners and workers receiving small salaries. In 1912 there were 12,584,000 savings bank depositors with deposits of $9,400,000,000 while in 1924 the deposits were $20,874,000,000 with 38,868,000 depositors. That is, the number of depositors in savings banks exceeded one third of the population of the United States.

These evidences that the American worker generally is accumulating capital in all directions should make it clear why the fanatic preachings of false economic and political doctrines which would abolish capital have no appeal to him.

ready illustration. Normally, this county produces about two-third of the cotton crop of the world, and of our production we export commonly from 55 to 60 per cent. Our market is absolutely free to the buyers of the world. They may come here for our raw cotton, take it home, turn it into fabrics, and if they are clever enough, which they often are, sell it back to us. Not only do they have this privilege, but to an impressive extent they have availed of it. We import nearly half as many yards of cotton cloth annually as we export.

Moreover, as the President points out, our imports, especially of fine goods, have been increasing rapidly during the past few years. Those who believe that the present tariff law is stifling world trade would do well to go into our stores, great and small, and take an inventory of the multitude of foreign products on sale there.

HOW MANY HURT?

"Suppose," said I, "you chanced to see A small boy tumble from a tree, How would you tell that tale to me?"

"Why dad," said he, "I'd simply say I saw a boy get hurt today And two men carried him away."

"How many injured would there be?" I asked. "Just one, of course," said he.

"The boy who tumbled from the tree?"

"No, no," I answered him, "that fall Which hurt the lad, brought pain to all Who knew and loved that youngster small."

"His mother wept, his father sighed, His brothers and his sisters cried, And all his friends were hurt inside."

"Remember this your whole life through— Whatever hurts may come to you, Must hurt us all who love you, too."

"You cannot live your life alone, We suffer with your slightest groan, And make your pain or grief our own."

"If you should do one shameful thing You could not bear alone the sting, We'd spend our years in suffering, How many hurt, we cannot state."

There never falls a blow of fate But countless people feel its weight."

M. M.: "Could I dye my heavy, white wool sweater a dark blue successfully at home? I should want it to dry without stretching."

Answer: If you wish to experiment, knit a small sample of white wool, buy a wool-dye of the desired color and shade, and see what you can do with the sample before going ahead on the sweater. I am afraid you will not have much success. Wool garments often shrink when being dyed. It is also hard to dry a sweater without stretching it. Perhaps your best course would be to let a professional cleansing establishment do the work for you.

Today's Talks

THE STIR OF SPRING

In the mystery of all birth is found the beauty of all life.

To me the stir of spring, just before it bursts forth from the ground and opens its eyes in buds and blooms, is the miracle of all miracles.

I would feel the loss of an entire year in which I did not walk in the midst of the movements of spring.

And when I speak of spring I mean the northern spring with its wonder of contrasts and its opening smiles after the long days of winter.

I arise early these days so that I may not miss a single note or song from my recently returned friends who have wintered in the south. I see them from my window that overhangs the woods and watch them as they drink from the spring just below. Soon little Jenny Wren will be here, and then there will be a riot of happy songs as the new nest is made in the tiny house that hangs from the gum tree over the waterfall.

I now see the pink of the peach blossom poking its life into the sunlight and in a day or so it will glow in its bridal gown beside the white of the cherry.

I have been walking in the woods and meeting my old flower friends of just a year ago who have been away for so long. I have lifted sticks and removed pieces of board or a stone here and there that they might better spread their shoots and blossom soon.

Where do all these colorings come from anyway? Yellow, blue, violet, red, white, pink, orange. All in their exquisite gowns as they march in perfect order to fulfill their mission in the carnival of beauty wrapped in the springtime.

There is such a pungent flavor to spring, too; Everything fresh and new and promising.

No one should be unhappy during the springtime. It should be the time of the year when the heart lets the sunshine in.

GOVERNMENT WILL SURVEY EARTHQUAKES IN HOPES OF FORECASTING SUCH UPHEAVALS

Washington, April 21.—The government is setting out to make an exhaustive and scientific study of earthquakes, with a view to ultimately predicting these vast upheavals of nature in advance—just as thunderstorms, storms and high winds are now predicted with remarkable accuracy.

Announcement was made today that the survey will be undertaken by the United States coast and geodetic survey. It will take months, but the scientists who have it in charge are confident that ultimately they will be able to give advance notice of the probable time and place of future tremors, and the results will more than justify the time and expense involved.

No section of the United States is immune from destructive upheavals although there are well recognized "earthquake" zones, William Bowie, a survey scientist, said today.

Earth tremors of varying intensity are recorded almost daily on seismographs along the Pacific coast, the Atlantic seaboard and the state's bordering on the Mississippi river. More than three hundred earthquakes occur every day in some part of the world.

"Earthquakes can be predicted as to time and place, but the strength of the tremor is uncertain, the element of time is uncertain and the area large," Bowie told the International News Service. "We may say with certainty for instance, that there will be an earthquake on the Pacific coast within the next week. But with our present limited knowledge of the changes in the earth's crust and underlying disturbances we cannot predict its intensity."

"Within the next century a heavy destructive earthquake is likely to occur along the Atlantic Coast. The east cannot sit back and consider itself more secure from quakes than the far west."

It is reasonably certain that we

CHILD BITTEN BY COLLIE PLAYMATE

Folger Hunt, three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hunt, who live on the Wilmington-Xenia Pike five miles from Wilmington, was badly bitten by a collie dog which had been his playmate from infancy, Saturday. The boy and dog had been romping in the yard, when the dog suddenly whirled and fastened its teeth in the child's right upper arm. It is said the child approached the dog while it was eating.

Mr. Hunt immediately shot the dog and decapitated it, sending the head to the Clinton County Health Department, which forwarded it to the State Department of Health, at Columbus, for examination for rabies.

LUMBERTON

The parents and patrons of the Lumberton community gathered at the school house at noon with well filled baskets and surprised the teacher, Miss Myrtle Dennis and her scholars, after a beautiful dinner was served they spent the afternoon in playing base ball.

Mr. and Mrs. Montie Cramer of Dayton spent the week end with Mrs. and Mrs. Arthur Oglesbee and family. Mr. Edward Soddors and sons Harold and William of Springfield spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Truman Hatt and family.

Mrs. Grant Conklin is improving nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hunt and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. George Hunt and family of near BBloomington.

Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson has returned to her home after having spent the last six weeks at the home of her son Russell and family.

THE WORST IS YET TO COME

shall have a heavy earthquake during the coming century in the Mississippi valley. In 1811 a destructive tremor occurred in the vicinity of New Madrid, Mo.

"Rain fundamentally is responsible for the earthquake, the scientist explained. The horsepower generated by the million miles of rain that have fallen since the earth was new, has made and remade mountains, formed continents, transformed the seas to plateaus and wrought other geological changes beyond man's comprehension.

"Rain wearing away the soil and moving great masses of sediment to the margins of oceans, causes great changes in elevation of the earth's surface.

"Earthquakes and volcanoes are merely incidents in the general process of geological evolution. We have earthquakes as the sediment depresses the crust, as the crust below swells up to form mountains, as the crust is buoyed up under the areas undergoing rapid wearing away, and as the crust cools and sinks under worn down mountain areas."

YOUTH WHO KILLED GRANDMOTHER NOT MOVED BY SENTENCE

Pottsville, Pa., April 21.—William Cavalier, 15 year old slayer of his aged grandmother, will hear Judge R. H. Koch sentence him to the electric chair next Monday.

But the youngest murderer ever to be convicted in the first degree in Pennsylvania, is unmoved by this nearness to death.

In the detention home of the county Jail here, William is too occupied in playing, reading and bead work to think of his fate. He chatters about his handicraft, the summer, baseball and detective stories.

"Say, what makes the beads stay in that way?" he asked as the woman teaching him the craft, deftly twisted a pattern to completion.

It wasn't a stupid question; it was the inquisitiveness of a boy learning a new craft.

He took it in his hands—hands larger than many men—and studied it.

"Yes I guess I'll get the juice," he answered unconcernedly when reminded he had been refused a new trial, and the supreme penalty would be demanded for his crime.

Quickly he went back to asking questions about the bead work.

Once he stopped to give an explanation of the murder, in answer to an inquiry.

"I was sitting on the porch that day," he began. "I had the rifle across my lap. I wasn't doing anything, just thinking. Then I felt queer—that way I often felt before. I saw red and I—well, after that I don't know what happened."

Why Knox Sparkling Gelatine Is Used at the Cooking School

THE foods used in the demonstration lessons by Mrs. Mary Brown-Lewers at the Home Economics Cooking School, now being conducted by the Xenia Gazette and Republican at the McKinley Auditorium, have been selected after years of tests for purity, surety, and economy.

Knox Sparkling Gelatine, which is the purest form of unflavored and unsweetened gelatine, saves its cost many times over in making fruits, vegetables, and meat go much further. One package of Knox Gelatine will serve six people at four different meals with a different dessert or salad, while a package of ready flavored gelatine serves but one meal.

Knox Sparkling Gelatine is especially selected for desserts, salads, meat loaves, and many other delicacies—to say nothing of its great health value

KNOX SPARKLING GELATINE

A half-teaspoon of Knox Gelatine, dissolved and added to a glass of milk will increase the nourishment obtainable from the milk by about 23 per cent.

Plain Sparkling Gelatine for general use.

COMPANY L. TO DRILL WITHOUT PAY DUE TO COOLIDGE ECONOMY

Despite President Coolidge's action in vetoing the appropriation bill for national guard units, members of Company L, 147th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, will continue to drill on regular nights for the next three months without pay, it was decided at a meeting held at the Armory, East Main Street, Monday night.

Owing to the fact that the president has ordered the number of drills each year to be changed from sixty to forty-eight, members of Company L do not draw pay for further drills until after July 1.

"The president, in releasing the deficiency item for payment of armory drills, has insisted on a substantial saving of the fund which will limit the number of drills to be held in the fiscal year ending June 30, to forty-eight in number," declared Frank D. Henderson, adjutant general in a letter to Captain Leroy V. John, of Company L. The local company as well as other companies has completed its required number of drills with no remuneration for further drills in sight until July 1.

Because of the president's action, companies will not be paid for regular drills until July 1, the fiscal year ending June 30, but in deciding not to discontinue drill, Company L is following the action of other companies throughout the state and nation, it is said.

This action was taken that enthusiasm in drills will not abate, and in order to keep the morale and efficiency of members at its highest pitch. More than half of the members of the company attended the Monday night meeting.

Members also formed a branch club composed of regular enlisted men, with eighteen charter members. A name for the club will be selected at a meeting to be held at the armory next Monday night. Officers may not become members of the organization.

The club was formed to co-operate on an extensive scale with the management of Company L, make suggestions to officers and aid drill work in every possible way. All social functions will be placed in charge of members of the new club, it was announced.

SCARLET FEVER

"Why don't they close the school and fumigate it?" asks an anxious mother, and hundreds of mothers in Ohio are asking the same question. Scarlet fever has broken out in school, cases continue to develop, anxious parents keep their children at home, and every gossip in town blames the health commissioner for not taking his advice; for in this case the gossip is a male.

The health commissioner refuses to close the school because that would scatter all the children. They probably would mingle just as much out of school as in school, and under worse conditions. Moreover, in school the health commissioner or health nurse can examine them daily, locate beginning cases of scarlet fever and isolate them before they have done any harm. And experience has shown that closing schools does not stop the spread of scarlet fever, while keeping school in session and under supervision is effective.

What about fumigation? Have you ever read of savage races who make smoke and fire to drive away evil spirits which have caused some of the tribe to sicken and die? That is the foundation of fumigation. A is a useless relic of the practices of bygone days. Fumigation is useless for two reasons. First, as it is carried out it will not kill the germs of disease. Second, the germs are not there to kill. The germs of scarlet fever and diphtheria are parasites, living in the human body. They cannot live outside the body for any length of time. A child who develops scarlet fever has contracted the disease from another person who is carrying the germs. That person may have a very mild attack which passes unnoticed. Desks, books, walls and other such objects cannot support the germs which are coughed or sneezed on them for more than a few hours.

The germs are found in the discharges of the nose, mouth and ear. Articles freshly contaminated with these discharges should be purified by boiling, washing, fresh air and sunshine.

Failure to report a mild case, neglect to call a doctor, refusal to obey quarantine regulations, and carelessness in following the doctor's orders in regard to isolation of the patient, cause scarlet fever to spread. Occasionally a doctor fails to report a case because he says it is "Rose Rash" or "Scarlatina," which is abject nonsense.

If you wish to know how to prevent scarlet fever or what to do when you have a case, write to the Ohio Department of Health for its two pamphlets on this subject, the first on scarlet fever alone, and the second on the regulations in this state for the control of all communicable diseases.—From Ohio Health News.

BEAUTIFUL SUMMER COTTAGE

"THE LITTLE MIAMI"

We Are Offering at Public Auction Tomorrow

Wednesday, April 22, 1925

At 2 p. m.

a summer cottage "THE LITTLE MIAMI" including a good-sized lot located on the banks of the Little Miami River and Massie's Creek on what is known as the Old Town Mill Site on the Springfield and Xenia new paved highway, about 3 1-2 miles north of Xenia, 15 miles south of Springfield and 16 miles east of Dayton. Also along the D. S. & X. S. Traction Line at the Old Town Mill stop.

This cottage and surroundings are electric lighted and beautifully set in a "U" shaped clump of trees, almost entirely surrounded by water, with the Xenia City Water works Sunken Flower Garden to the front.

This is an ideal spot to spend your summer, your vacation, or your idle hours and enjoy Nature's splendors.

This will not only make you a nice place to spend your idle hours, but a good investment, as you can easily rent it to great advantage when you are not using it yourself.

This cottage is a good buy from a speculative standpoint as there is a move on foot right now to develop these grounds into a fine summer resort, with beautiful drives, rivers, creeks, lagoons, fountains, dining halls, hotels, barbecues, filling stations, dance pavilion, bathing beaches, boating and fishing, and as this develops the summer cottages will increase in value accordingly.

Come and look over this cottage before the sale and make up your mind to buy a cottage and help develop these grounds into a beautiful summer resort.

SECRETS of the SARGASSO

Scientific Argosy Seeks Unexplored Fastnesses of "Sea of Missing Ships" to Plumb Mysteries of Weed-Girt Tropic Waters

IT is very hot. The sea rolls sluggishly under a misty sky with a sun in it like a rotten orange. The surface of the water is patched and granulated in every direction with a mat of pallid green and yellow. There is no sound but the occasional wash of a wave beneath the weed and the hoarse crying of thousands of sea birds hovering and wheeling above.

In all the lonely circle of the horizon the Sargasso Sea stretches without sign of human life, unless it be the solitary hulk of a derelict, sunk to the water-line, which wallows almost invisible in its trappings of kelp and strange, snake-like marine plants, dotted with resting gulls.

But far to the north a faint smudge of smoke appears against the sky, mounting and growing darker. The masts and funnel of a steamer come into view beneath it, and in an hour's time the ship is well above the horizon, plunging her way stubbornly through the floating fields of vegetation.

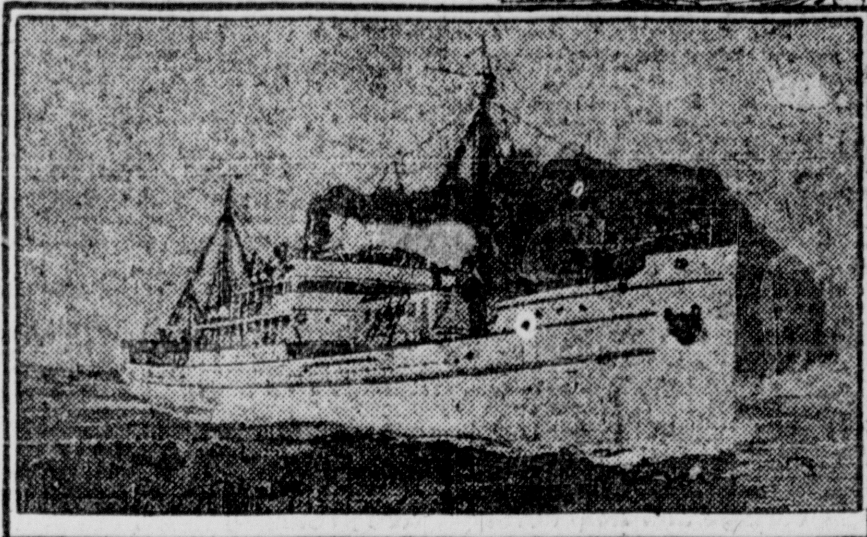

Clouds of chattering birds fly about her, raising their voices in angry vociferation at this invasion of their aged domain. A mattress of weed trails thickly from her advancing stem, like an inconspicuous green moustache, and in the open water of her wake the sharp fins of sharks are sliding along, silent as pursuing wolves.

A Strange Craft

An unusual craft this, which has poked her blunt nose into this untraveled wilderness of the sea. Suspended over her fore-foot is a small platform, swung outboard from the cut-water, from which a man with a long-handled ladle is dipping and scooping beneath the surface. Right, left, right, left, he probes the still-untroubled waters as they advance. The spoils he deposits in tin pails ranged about his feet.

Lining the rail above him is a group of fourteen people who peer eagerly at the warm mistiness of the sea, talking in excited whispers. Except for the ship seemed deserted, a small freighter preternaturally clean, with the name "Arcturus" gleaming in gold letters upon her bows.

But she is not an ordinary cargo-cadger. Most of the upper cabins are filled with scientific apparatus—microscopes, test tubes, charts, chemicals in bottles, books of reference, cases full of hand flashlights for night field work, all the impedimenta of a learned establishment. On deck are nets, reels of cable and wire rope, great steel seines and many small boats.

The S. S. "Arcturus," largest floating marine laboratory in the history of scientific exploration, which was fitted out by the New York Zoological Society to obtain complete data regarding the Sargasso Sea, one of the least-known portions of the earth's surface.

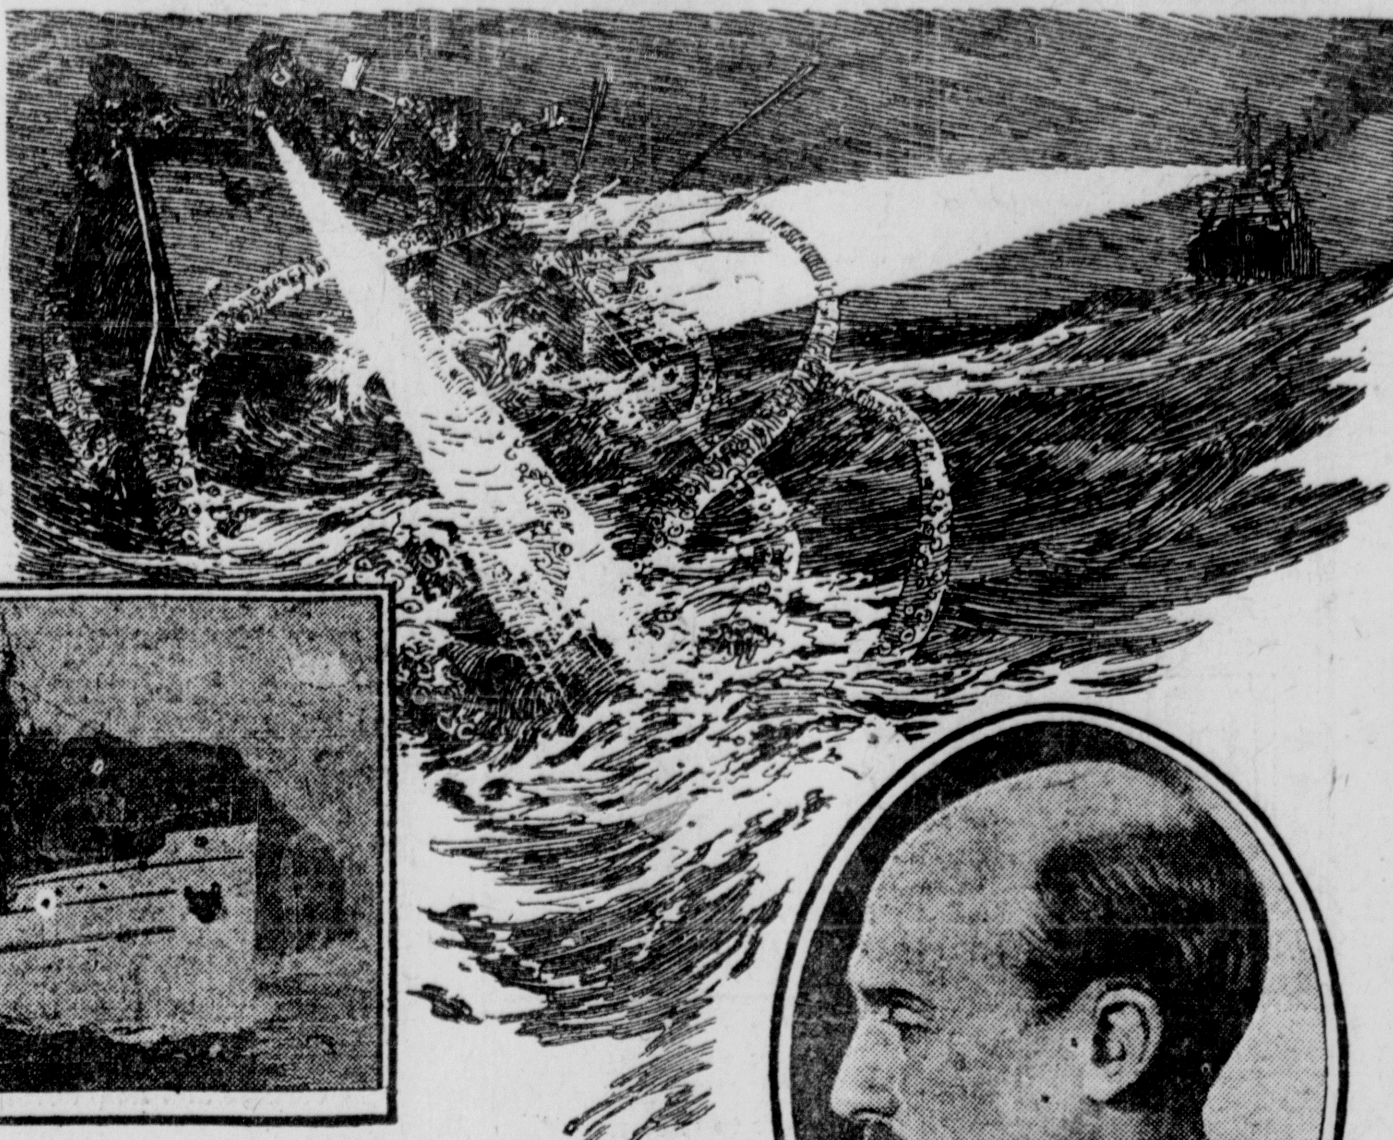

Below, along the sides of the ship, are fitted long rows of glass tanks electrically lighted.

A bell jingles and the craft loses way. The muffled thrud of her screw ceases, and in the ensuing quiet the weed drifts slowly together again, hemming her in. With a metallic roar the anchors splash down and the chain cables leap out through the hawse-holes in brown blurs. For minutes they put out, then slacken. Rolling slightly, the ship heads up to the swell and floats inert.

A Drama of Science

So begins the first chapter in the romantic tale of scientific inquiry and exploration which will search out the secrets of the Sargasso Sea—the ninth expedition of the department of Tropical Research of the New York Zoological Society, under the leadership of the well-known naturalist, William Beebe.

Anchored here in the depths of the illimitable sea-meadows, working night and day upon a host of scientific problems, the party will gather first-hand information upon one of the least-known and most widely misrepresented portions of the earth's surface.

William Beebe, eminent naturalist and veteran of many expeditions to the tropics, who was selected to lead the party of 14 scientists who will ferret out the age-old secrets of the Sargasso.

Much has been written about the Sargasso Sea. Its time-honored appellation, "The Sea of Dead Ships," has captured the imagination of a veritable army of writers who, never having been there themselves, have permitted their fancy to run riot among the clustering weed and the hot, currentless waters.

Sargasso Superstitions

There are weird tales of ships caught in the Sargasso Sea and unable to get out, found centuries later with the skeletons of all their crew lying in the tatters of their garments, victims of starvation and thirst. There are alluring stories of Spanish treasure galleons floating with all their gold in the deepest fastnesses of the weed. These have been highly colored romances based upon the idea of strange kingdoms in the secret depths of the gulf, great collections of derelicts peopled by lost men, ruled by fierce-eyed, hairy sailors.

Such is the Sargasso Sea of fiction. In actuality it is vastly different. As a result of the circulation of ocean currents about a certain spot in the North Atlantic a thick accumulation of floating seaweed and other vegetation has formed there, as flotsam forms in the back waters of running streams. This spot, generally north-east of the West Indies, is roughly bounded by the latitudes 25 to 30 North and the longitudes 38 to 60 West.

A Little Known Field

But of the actual teeming life which swarms in and about, above and below this matting of twisted plant growth all too little scientific data are available. From the zoological point of view the Sargasso Sea and the depths beneath it are almost virgin territory. It is this field which the Arcturus and her little company of students have come to explore.

The sun sinks to the west, plunging into the sea with a red flare and a burst of streamers across the sky. Almost at once the tropical darkness descends. Huge stars spring out in a sky like black velvet, pulsing and bluely white. The dark waters alongside are lit with a greenish glow.

Aboard the Arcturus there is a bustle of preparation. Hurrying figures pass and repass before the lighted ports; there is a creak of blocks and a gleam of flashlights as davits are swung out and the small boats prepared. Oars thump in rowlocks, and parallel whorls of phosphorescence mark their progress away from the ship.

The Flashlight's Lure
At a little distance they pause. The flashlights wink and creep upon the weed or glisten on the heaving swells. Nets are dipped and emptied, bringing up strange small creatures and fantastic fishes, fascinated by the lights. Microscopic algae are scooped up in millions and poured into receptacles to be studied and classified in the laboratories aboard the ship.

For hours the work goes on. Minute sea-horses, feathery and ragged as the weed itself, are brought up, almost indistinguishable in their coverts of kelp. Huge tropical medusae, filling a whole cask with their long, poisonous tentacles. Fish with brilliant stripings and mottlings in every hue, which glitter like jeweled ornaments. And at last a specimen of that rare thing, a Sargasso Fish, draws a delighted cry from one of the boats.

The others gather round until their thwarts touch, while their occupants peer at the curious little fish flapping in the rays of the flashlight. Not so remarkable in appearance, but very scarce—a female antennarius, lured away from the nest she had spun in the weed for her eggs, while her spouse kept watch.

In the days that follow other work is done. A small platform is swung from the boom and lowered over the ship's side. A man takes his place upon it, clad in a bathing suit and wearing a huge copper diving helmet on his head. The air pump is started, and man and platform sink slowly beneath the waves until they hang suspended some ten feet below the surface. From this point, looking up through the clear water at the bottom of the floating weed, the observer can study multifarious life—there, limned against the light.

But suddenly a shadow passes to the right. Twisting the helmet around, he catches the long, ghostly gleam of a through the clinging weed like some strange monster rising from the sea, fugitive but triumphant.

Within half an hour he is under the water again on the other side of the boat, with another knife. Heroism is not entirely confined to battlefields.

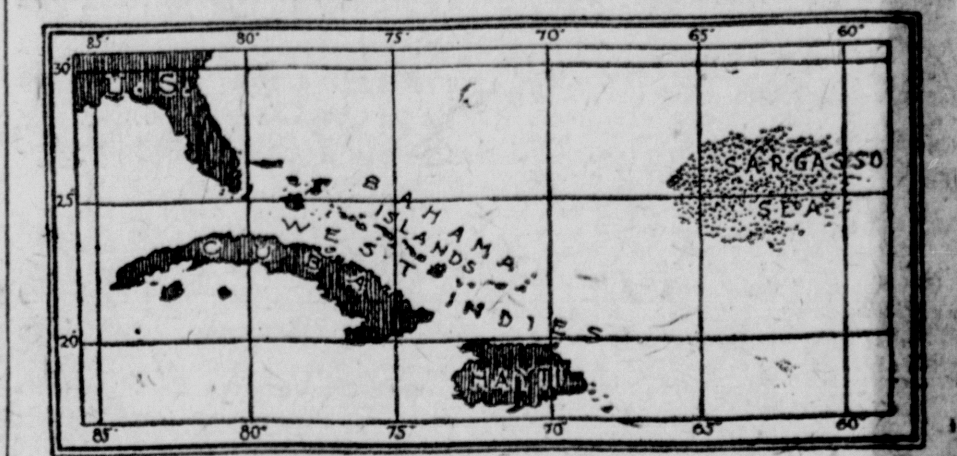

Many nights are spent in deep-sea dragging, steaming slowly through the matted vegetation while along the bottom of the ocean, thousands of feet below, a great steel mesh gathers in the strange creatures of the abysses. The night is chosen, the better to observe the natural illuminating devices with which many of these fish are equipped, living as they do in the perpetual darkness of the profound depths where no sunlight ever penetrates.

De Profundis

Up comes the dragnet, dripping, and its ice-cold contents are emptied upon the deck. Under the combined rays of a dozen flashlights the black and shining heap of ooze is examined. Shapeless masses are separated out and laid aside, contorted almost out of recognition by their convulsive expansion when taken from the enormous pressure to which they are accustomed.

Creatures with gaping jaws armed with saber-like teeth, capable of swallowing and digesting masses larger than themselves; plant-like animals with flinty skeletons of exquisite delicacy and beauty; fantastic crawling forms and spidery creepers—all dead, but all susceptible of restoration and mounting under the skilled hands of the preparator.

So, day after day, the work progresses, and the specimen tanks are slowly filled. Thousands of photographs shark's belly sliding past. The great fish is reconnoitering this strange phenomenon. Is it good to eat? Again it comes, closer this time, and the man in the helmet gives the signal to raise the platform. From his belt he draws a long, sharp knife.

The Shark Attacks

Almost at the surface, but now the shark comes with a silent rush, turning over as it nears. The man, crouched, with one hand clutching a ringbolt, lunges at the close white smear. The weapon strikes, is torn from his hand, and he emerges are taken, and hundreds of feet of motion-picture film. Vast quantities of notes are made; bookfuls of data accumulated. Special care is observed to set aside a series of specimens, well preserved, to be used in the submarine Sargasso Sea section which will be installed at the Museum of Natural History in New York.

And when all is completed the Arcturus noses her way out of the weed and sets a homeward course, bearing with her a priceless treasure-trove of new knowledge and discovery.

RESERVES TO PLAY COLLEGIANS HERE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The Xenia reserves will engage in their third game of the season Sunday afternoon at Washington Park when they take on the speedy Medway Collegians.

The Collegians, who have been organized for three seasons or more, have about the same team this season as they did last year. Haddix, fast ball pitcher, is still doing the twirling for the Medway bunch while Greene is catching him. Last Sunday they lost their first game of the season to the Millards of Springfield by a 10 to 9 score in a free hitting game.

The Reserves have played two games to date and have won one and lost one. Last Sunday the Shroyer Cubs beat them by a 6 to 3 count. The locals erratic fielding cost them the game. They are not discouraged over the showing made as the Cubs have one of the best semi-pro nine around these parts. "Jap" Ritter is the real hitting leader in the two games played having two safe blows to his credit out of five trips to the plate giving him an average of .400. Following is the batting for two games played.

A very interesting and well rendered program was given at this place Sunday morning by the public school pupils, under the direction of their week day teacher of religious education, Mrs. Behrend. The latter in explaining the work, said special emphasis is laid on the two great Commandments, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God, with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength," and "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thy self," that the children may be taught to make love the keynote of their relations with each and all. The death of Robert C. Turnbull prominent grocer and hardware merchant of Jamestown, which occurred at his home in that city, Sunday morning, April 12th, at 8 o'clock, marked the passing of one of Greene County's most widely known citizens and business men. Mr. Turnbull had been in failing health for nearly two years, twice suffering fatal paralysis from which he later showed some improvement. The immediate cause of his death was due to apoplexy centering in the head. The deceased had been in business in Jamestown for 35 years, and with the assistance of his sons, C. H. Jenkins, erected the group of store rooms where his present business now stands.
For many years he was associated with Mr. Jenkins, under the firm name of Jenkins and Turnbull until four years ago, when his partner died, and he purchased the full interest.
He stood high as a citizen of his community, a business man of excellent qualifications and his reputation for integrity and fair dealing won him friends and patrons from near and far.
He was a life long member of the United Presbyterian Church of Jamestown, and for many years a member of the Session. He also served his church in many other capacities.
He had been a member of the Jamestown School Board and for several years, its president.
He was born Sept. 24th, 1851, on a farm near Cedarville, and of one of the pioneer families of the County.
He was a son of Joseph S. and Mary Ann Spencer Turnbull.
In 1876 he married Miss Anna Belle of Monmouth, Ill., who departed this life in 1907.

"NOT POSSIBLE TO CLASSIFY" BY MACK SAUER

HIS ONION QUEEN (Third Spasm)
WELL, when Hick's plump little 200-pound bride opened her eyes as she lay on the flat of her back on the barber shop floor and saw Hick standing over her she thought the very hairs on her were numbered. Hick, who had been doing hair-raising stunts ever since he was a boy, raised her by the hair and she realized she had had a hairbreadth escape.
"I came here to get my roof shingled," she ejaculated, shaking a whisker off of her elbow, "but there were so many sideburns on the floor that my feet got on fire and I had to roll across to keep from burning up."
While strong in many ways, her Onion King had his weak points and she got away with the story. They walked to the hotel and on the way Hick bought a box of tacks.
Late that afternoon, after two hours of terrible grilling, Hick made a dramatic confession. Kneeling on his left knee, with his right hand clutching his pocketbook and with his left holding the box of tacks, he said: "Morning Glory, I'll tell you why I bought the tacks. I bought them for garters. I have a wooden leg."
Poor Morning Glory was stumped. Here he had been carrying around the mahogany stump all the time, but hadn't made a single stump speech about it. He had lost one of his calves, but there had been no bawling done. While she realized that she would have only one sock to wash, the wooden leg went against the grain and she didn't think it would do even in a pinch.

The next morning, with hardly a leg to stand on, Hick suggested that they cut their honeymoon in Toronto short and go to Jamestown to spend a few days with his dying grandmother. Morning Glory hid his wooden leg so he could not follow her, went out and told the wealthy shoeshiner's son of their departure and then went back and away they went for Jamestown.
No sooner did they arrive in Jamestown than Miss Abigail Smearcase, the cream of a neighborhood family came to see Hick, as they had gone to different schools together. Morning Glory at once got soured on Miss Smearcase because Hick thought she was quite the cream. Things looked blue. Her Onion King had lost a knee cap and to cap it all he seemed to think Miss Smearcase was some cheese. (To Be Continued)

COMMERCE CHAMBER
RISES FROM GRAVE
WITH SILLY INQUIRY

Who wants to back a new hotel for Xenia financially?

Dilver Belden, secretary, Greene County Auto Club, who has been receiving mail for the defunct Chamber of Commerce since that once important body passed out of existence, would like to know the names of such prospective hotel "angels" very much.

His curiosity has been piqued by receipt of a prospectus from The Lindsay Operating Association, chain hotel operators, New York City, who sent their inquiry here in answer to an advertisement that appeared in the Hotel Press, a hotel organ published in New York City.

The advertisement reads: "A first class hotel would receive much local financial support. A good restaurant is also needed. Chamber of Commerce, Xenia." The Lindsay Association expressed interest in the hotel proposition and asked how much local capital would be invested. The communication was addressed to the Chamber of Commerce but was delivered to the Auto Club.

Since the Chamber of Commerce has been only a memory for a long time, Belden believes he could find the "local financial support" about as easy as he could find that august body. Source of the advertisement which resulted in the inquiry is the mystery over which Auto Club officials are buzzing.

HUGHES ELECTED TO HEAD XENIA QUOIT
CLUB COMING YEAR

James Hughes was unanimously elected president of the Xenia Quoit Club for the coming year at its reorganization meeting in the offices of the Army Motor Sales Company, South Detroit Street, Monday night. J. T. Hibbert is retiring executive.

W. S. Sachs, a new member, was elected secretary, and Lawrence Wagner was re-elected treasurer.

Preliminary plans for the removal of the quoit grounds, now located on East Market Street, to the new Shawanese Park site in the Dodds Addition, were outlined at the meeting. The old grounds will not be available this year.

A banquet will be held Thursday, April 20, preliminary to an intensive drive for new memberships. Arch Jeffries was placed in charge of the Banquet Committee, with authority to appoint additional members. It has not been decided where to hold the banquet.

James Watkins, one of the original members of the club, was again placed in charge of the grounds committee, and will have complete charge of work of establishing the grounds at the proposed site on East Church Street.

It is the belief of officers that horse shoe pitching as well as quoits will be enthusiastically indulged in this year, and it is planned to set up several beds for the former sport on the new grounds. Several other minor committees were appointed.

YESTERDAY'S JUNIOR
PUZZLE ANSWER

BRINGING UP FATHER

MICHAEL'S MARRIAGE

By MICHAEL

CHAPTER XXI.

"Garson" moved about the table as if he had seen nothing. At this precise moment "Garson" gave the impression of being minus eyes and ears.

Michael's eyes burned fiercely at the waiter, or at Lilah. It seemed to him as if "Garson" would never go. He had an impulse to knock the dishes from his hands and scream: "Get out, and stay out." The waiter woodenly chose this moment to suggest: "French pastries—only an hour out of the oven?" His hands eloquently suggested the deliciousness of the pastries.

"I would like some, Michael," Lilah spoke up. The evenness of her voice, devoid of any emotion, relieved the tension that gripped the man sitting opposite her.

"Garson" departed with a bow to Lilah, and re-entered immediately with the tray of pastries. Michael watched her as one hypnotized as she hovered over her selection. Then he absently indicated one himself.

When they were alone again, he said to her quietly: "I am going to kiss you."

Each word was enunciated clearly. He leaned toward her. She drew back, raising her hand. "No, please—no."

She quickly glanced around. The manner of her response, her glance—they were sublime to Michael. He caught her hand again. "I love you, Lilah," he smiled. "You're going to hear me say that millions nad millions of times."

She seemed relieved when they rose to go. He helped her into his car tenderly. "Let's take a little turn around Beaver Park—you haven't an engagement for the afternoon, have you?"

She read his thoughts, and smiled. "Let's not go now, Michael. I want to go home. . . and think. It's all so wonderful."

Michael narrowly missed hitting another automobile. Lilah, alarmed, grabbed his arm.

"You're trying to keep me from kissing you, aren't you?" He smiled into the windshield. "Well, I'm going to kiss you before I allow you to go home."

He remembered at that moment one of Lonnie Cappers' observations: "Never tell a girl you're going to kiss her. Just do it—they like them better when you surprise them. And it shows them you're a brave, devil may care fellow. Every girl remembers a man by their first kiss. In fact, girls classify men by kisses."

Michael glanced furtively at his companion. Her eyes were staring at the traffic. Had he erred in announcing his intention. Had he made a fool of himself? The wonderful feeling that had been permeating him melted away, and left him wretched. He was feeling the bitterness of doubt that goes with love.

They did not speak again until the automobile stopped before her house. He helped her out, and, with his hand securely gripping her arm, walked with her toward the door.

"When are you going away?" she broke the silence.

"I don't know now. I don't want to go at all."

"But, Michael, you mustn't let this stop you if it means anything to your career."

He lover her for that.

"When were you planning to go?" she persisted.

"Saturday night."

"Oh . . . that's such a short time away." They stopped at her door, and she was looking at him through liquid eyes.

"May I come to see you tonight?"

She hesitated. "Yes."

He glanced around. No, damn it, too many persons were looking. He faced her again, unconsciously moistening his lips. A foolish sort of smile came upon his face. She answered his smile. Then, suddenly, she bent over and kissed him. Her aim was bad, and her lips met his cheek. He tried to hold her and press his mouth to hers, but she resisted and opened the door.

"Good-bye, until tonight," she called.

My mother gave me Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it built me up in health, strengthened my nerves and I developed into womanhood naturally and had no more trouble. I have been healthy and strong ever since. Favorite Prescription is the best tonic and nerve that can be taken by women or girls who are weak and rundown."

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

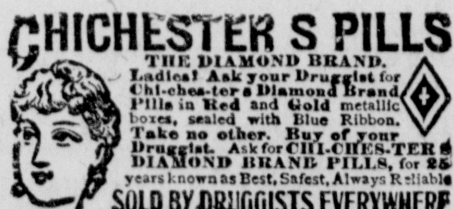

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.
